Township Seeks Changes in Office Zoning To Restrict Size of Commerical Buildings

Changes to the Township zoning code based on the results of a major traffic study were introduced by Township Committee on Monday night of this week, over the protest of one of the affected property owners. The proposed changes affect office properties in the OR-1 and OR-2 districts along Bunn Drive, extending to Herrontown Road and Poor Farm Road.

Under the proposed amendment, the permitted floor-area-ratio (FAR) in the OR-1 district at the north end of Bunn Drive, Herrontown and Poor Farm roads, would be reduced from the present 12 percent to eight percent, while the FAR in the OR-2 district, bounded by Terhune Road to the east and Mt. Lucas to the west, would be reduced from the current 18 percent to 10 percent.

Floor-area-ratio, or FAR, is defined as the ratio of the total amount of building square footage to the total lot area, as expressed in a percentage. It is a principal means of controlling the intensity of development, particularly of office or commercial buildings, whereas residential density is set by the number of units allowed per acre.

In addition to reducing the permitted FAR by approximately one third, the proposed amendment would also extend the more restrictive OR-1 district, which now ends just south of Princeton Community Village, further south, to a diagonal cutting across Bunn Drive about where Wren Associates and Peterson Guides are located. This realignment is along the "toe" of the environmentally sensitive ridge.

In presenting the proposed changes to Township Commit-

Developer Set to Buy 180-Acre Ettl Farm

Ettl Farm, one of the last large properties in the Township, is under contract for purchase by a developer based in Staten Island.

Nearly 180 acres of pasture rising from Rosedale Road and extending north to the woods and steep slopes along Stony Brook, the farm is bounded by the Brookstone development to the east and Province Line Road to the west. It is owned by Alex J. Ettl, who rented the large barn to the Princeton Art Association for 10 years. Son of a sculptor who is himself an authority on casting, Mr. Ettl has always taken a keen interest in artistic development and has rented parts of the main farmhouse to artists over the years.

The developer, Sanford Nalitt and Associates of Staten Island, has met with members of the Planning Board and the Planning Director. The property is zoned RM — residential moderate density — with a maximum density of 3.25

NJ Historical Society Forced to Relinquish Morven; Fate of One-Time Governor's Mansion Is Uncertain

The state and the New Jersey Historical Society are "in negotiation" about the future of Morven, the 16th century mansion built by Richard Stockton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, which served as the official mansion for four New Jersey governors.

The board of governors of the New Jersey Historical Society voted in May to terminate an arrangement made with the state in 1981 whereby Drumthwacket would become the official governor's mansion and Morven a central New Jersey branch of the Newark-based society.

Behind these two facts — that the deficit-ridden New Jersey Historical Society (NJHS) has decided to relinquish Morven because it is a financial drain, and that the state is trying to decide what to do with the mansion, which it owns — is a story that has its roots in the original agreement between the two parties. It is a tale of reneged commitment on the part of the state and financial and managerial disarray on the part of the Society.

The story was pieced together in telephone interviews with Tristam Johnson, a member of the Society's board of governors, who resigned in protest over the decision, and with Gregory Coin, who lived at Morven as site manager for the New Jersey Historical Society from December, 1982, until this past April. Fred Rohn, chairman of the Society, declined to return several calls to his Touche Ross office in Newark, and Barry Rosen, recently appointed executive director of the Society, said he was "not a spokesman" for the Society and was not involved in the negotiations.

Morven remained continuously in Stockton family ownership from the time it was built in 1770 or 1771 until 1945, when it was purchased by Governor Walter E. Edge and his wife. In 1950, the Edges offered the house as a gift to the state for use as an executive mansion or state museum. Under the terms of the gift, if it is not used for either purpose, the house reverts to the Edge heirs.

The first governor to occupy Morven under state ownership was Robert B. Meyner, who moved in with his bride early in 1957. Successive occupants have been Gov. and Mrs. Richard J. Hughes, Gov. and Mrs. William T. Cahill and Gov. and Mrs. Brendan T. Byrne.

Beginning with the Hughes administration, the inadequacies of Morven as a home for large families — each governor after Meyner had seven or more children — and as the location for state functions were the topic of blue-ribbon panel deliberation. In the latter part of the Byrne administration the idea of making Drumthwacket the governor's residence and

Way Is Cleared to Bring More Affordable Housing To John-Witherspoon Area

At least two dozen residents of the John-Witherspoon neighborhood listened patiently as the Borough last week asked the Regional Planning Board to designate Shirley Court as "blighted" and four other potential affordable housing sites as "areas in need of rehabilitation."

It was past midnight when the Board acted, granting the request and paving the way for the Borough's next step in implementing its affordable housing program.

The residents, many of whom came at the suggestion of the Rev. Adrian McFarlane, pastor of Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, were given some time to speak after the Borough's nearly three-hour presentation. However, many made their feelings dwelling units to the acre. A key requirement is that the developer must set aside 22 percent of the units he builds for low and moderate income housing.

He may also arrange for those units to be located on an RH — residential high density — site in agreement with the Township Housing Fund, or make a contribution of land or cash to the Fund. Another key requirement is that the units be clustered, and that 50 percent of the tract be kept in open space. Fifty-seven acres along Stony Brook were designated in the 1980 Master Plan for open space.

Meeting Set for Friday On Police-Black Relations

Responding to articles that have appeared in local papers this year on dissatisfaction with police behavior in the black community, Mayor Barbara Sigmund has arranged a meeting this Friday morning at Borough Hall with Police Chief Michael Carnevale, Capt. Thomas Michaud, and the Rev. Michael Nabors of First Baptist Church.

Early in the year, TOWN TOPICS interviewed Joint Civil Rights Commission Director Joan Hill, who said there had been "numerous complaints" by black residents about Borough police.

A meeting had taken place last summer with Mayor Sigmund, Chief Carnevale, Police Commissioner Jane Terpstra and Mayor Sigmund, said Ms. Hill. "We discussed these issues with the hope of having some police-community relations seminars. Nothing has transpired so far."

"I believe these allegations have to be taken with the utmost seriousness," said the mayor. "I believe it's a double perception problem."

She said that, on the one hand, a large portion of the black community, town and gown, apparently has a very strong perception that the police in the Borough are treating the black community in a different way than they are treating the white community.

"On the other hand," she continued, "police leadership has an equally strong perception that they are extremely strict with their force in guarding against this kind of differential treatment in the community."

She said that it had come to her attention that the ministers in the black community are more than willing to use their good offices to try to work out better methods of sensitizing police to the feelings of the community and to develop specific methods of bettering police-community relations.

Noting that there was an abundance of such programs in the early seventies, and that few exist today, she said she appreciated the offer of the black ministers to work out a program relevant to the eighties.

Store Donates Clothes To Churches, Children

Several months ago, Landau's advertised for charities that could use cases of clothing that were not in perfect condition but were still wearable.

The garments, many of which were returns that had been worn, consisted mainly of woollen items, with an original retail value of $15,000-$20,000, said Robert Landau.

The store received about eight replies. The three who followed up recently came to Landau's to collect their clothing.

Nassau Presbyterian Church took cases of clothes to be distributed through its Crisis Ministry both in its own church and in a church in Trenton.

The Lawrence Road Presbyterian Church, the second of the three recipients, will distribute the clothing it picked up to financially disadvantaged families at Princeton Theological Seminary.

The third recipient was a woman in Gillette, N.J., who heads Love the Children, a group of families who have adopted Korean orphans.

She took home with her a number of cases of mostly woollen clothing appropriate for children. In addition, she will send four boxes of blankets to orphanages in Korea.

Mr. Landau said that these unsaleable clothes had formerly been taken by an employee who was connected with the seminary and by former Princeton photographer Ulli Stelzer, who took them to Appalachia.

Both are no longer in town, which is what led Mr. Landau to decide to run the ad that led to the distribution of the clothing to the three charitable organizations.

Clubhouse, Townhouses Win Needed Variances

With seven members present last Wednesday night for the continued hearing on Michael Giardino's proposed townhouses and a new clubhouse for the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club, the Township Zoning Board granted the necessary variances for the project.

Mr. Giardino needed a density variance for the 65 townhouses for "empty-nesters" and young couples he proposes on 20 acres off Terhune Road he is purchasing from the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club. To complete his agreement with Club members, who will keep five acres and for whom he has designed a new clubhouse further back on the site, the project also required a use variance, because clubhouses are not a permitted use in the zone.

The first request met little opposition and was granted unanimously. With the exception of Thomas Wright of Journey's End Lane, neighbors on both nights of the hearing were vocal in support of townhouses rather than offices. Mr. Wright praised the design of the clustered townhouses, but said he was concerned about the "larger implications" of rezoning and what it would mean for both commercial development and single family homes in that area of the Township.

Dwight Minton, chairman of the board and chief executive office of neighboring Church and Dwight, told the Zoning Board his firm had no objection to the change, provided it would not affect the firm's plans for enlarging its facility. Church and Dwight purchased the former American Can building and 23 acres off Harrison Street in order to locate its world headquarters here. "We don't want to have to move again," Mr. Minton said.

The firm has already added some 13,000 square feet and intends an additional building for which plans are being formulated, he said.

Less Traffic Impact. Thomas Jamieson, Mr. Giardino's attorney, presented testimony from Harvey Yessowitz, traffic consultant, to show that the proposed townhouses would generate far less traffic than the 130,000 square feet of office space that could be built on the site under present zoning. The 65 residential units would generate 2,334 trips a week, Mr. Yessowitz asserted, as opposed to the 9,100 trips per week that would be generated by office use. Mr. Yessowitz was using an office square footage that would result from a floor-area-ratio (FAR) of 15 percent rather than the permitted 18 percent, it was pointed out, so the numbers generated by office use could be even higher.

A map detailing all the current and proposed developments in the Township appears on Pages 22 and 23.

A 15 percent office scheme would require 639 parking spaces, as opposed to 178 needed for 65 units, and would involve five times more cars entering and leaving the site at peak hours. Mr. Yessowitz testified to "high levels of service" on surrounding roads, which would not be affected by the proposed townhouse development, except that cars exiting the site might experience some delay at peak hours.

He praised the proposal as "well-thought out" and called it a "much better plan than what is permitted on the property currently."

Having been asked to scale down the development from 80 units to 65 by a subcommittee of the Planning Board, Mr. Giardino showed a more complete, colored drawing of the new version, which he said would retain all the design principles of the original. In addition, there would be more space — 65 feet instead of 15 feet — along the side of the property bordered by Journey's End Lane residences.

The units would average 2,000 square feet, excluding garage space, and be clustered around three courtyards in groups of 20, 20 and 24, with one all by itself. He also plans to provide a small apartment for a resident caretaker in a maintenance area.

There was concern about the density of the project. Asked why he did not plan 15 single family lots as allowed under the zoning, Mr. Giardino responded that the price of the property had been set "for the highest and best use, which is office. To take that raw land cost and divide it by 15 would produce lots in excess of the market value of lots in that area," he said. "You would end up with houses priced way out of the range the neighborhood would sustain."

Noise from Clubhouse. Taken as a separate issue and a separate vote, the request for a use variance to build a new clubhouse raised old neighborhood objections to noise and prompted Zoning Board chairman Donald Wilson to suggest imposing restrictions as a condition of approval of the variance. Italian-American Sportsmen Club president Joseph Toto objected strongly to any restrictions on Club activities.

Earlier Mr. Toto told the board the group holds an annual picnic for which it applies for a sound amplification permit from Township Committee. Although the Club has in the past rented its facilities to outside groups, it has not done so in the past two years, he said, but members do hold weddings and other festive occasions there. He added that the new building would be air conditioned (the present one is not), and he doubted anyone would be able to hear music coming from within the closed facility.

But Frank Subjack of Journey's End Lane, the only neighbor to raise the subject of noise at the two hearings, told the Zoning Board that "Township police are not equipped, nor are they inclined to enforce the noise ordinance." Robert Hosford warned the board, "You are going to create ill feelings if you impose restrictions."

Zoning Board member Edgar Madsen told of his early experiences as a Danish immigrant to this country, living on the premises of such a club in Chicago, and added: "If you are going to have a club, you are going to have these uses." He moved approval, seconded by Ramona Huff. Grant Green abstained, without explanation, and the vote was 6 yeas with one abstention.

Environmental Commission Urges Township to Veto Collins Development's Exemption from Sewer Ban

Peggy McNeill, chairman of the Princeton Environmental Commission, appeared before Township Committee Monday night to ask the Committee to veto the Sewer Operating Committee's recommendation to the state Department of Environmental Protection that Collins Development Corp. be granted a sewer ban exemption.

Collins sought the exemption in order to obtain building permits to proceed with its Phase III or flulfish North construction. This phase involves two underground garages, an office building and 144 condominiums. Under the DEP regulations, Collins applied to the SOC citing financiat hardship, the SOC agreed to recommend an exemption and last Wednesday the DEP granted the exemption.

Mrs. McNeill was accompanied by Dwight O. North of Random Road, who has a sewer line in his back yard and who has long been fighting for no new sewer connections until the sewer system is repaired. The Environmental Commission is asking the Township to veto the SOC recommendation on the grounds that granting a sewer exemption violates both municipal law and DEP regulations, that it sets a precedent, and that it is contrary to the Commission's own efforts to halt new sewer connections until the system is repaired.

Mr. North further argued, as he has all along, that the SOC was not the proper body to hear exemption requests. But Township Attorney Edwin Schmierer, reading from DEP regulations, said that the Township had no authority to veto SOC decisions relating to projects in another municipality, and pointed out that Collins development was located in the Borough.

However, the Township could request an administrative hearing at the DEP within 30 days of the DEP's decision granting the exemption, Mr. Schmierer advised. Committeeman Thomas Poole pointed out that Collins construction was scheduled to "come on line" at about the same time that the Harry's Brook trunkline replacement was to he completed — although that project has been delayed because federal Environmental Protection Agency approval has not yet been received.

Citing statistics from the SOC, Mr. Poole said that the four elements of Collins Phase III will add an estimated 47,000 gallons per day to a trunk line that carries 2.56 million gallons a day under normal conditions and up to 19.7 million gallons per day in very wet weather. That amounted to between one and two percent of the total flow in normal conditions, he pointed out.

Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser confirmed that there were nine overflow periods in 1984, a "wet"year, and three in 1985. "With Collins, there would not be a great change in the overflow occurrence, which depends on the height of the groundwater table," Mr. Kiser said.

Committeeman William Cherry, who supports the position of Mrs. McNeill and Mr. North vis-a-vis the Collins ban, suggested that as a compromise Cnllins be required to install a holding tank similar to that required of Benedict Yedlin for his Foulet tract. The suggestion was not acted upon.

Mr. Cherry also fumed against the legal opinion that holds that the Township cannot intervene with a veto over a project located in the Borough. "If we've created an entity (the SOC) that can decide it can spew noxious substances on Township lands without our having a say, then I say we have created a Frankenstein monster, and we should dismantle it right away." Mr. Cherry was appointed to the SOC by Mayor Firestone to replace Mayor Winthrop Pike when she took office early this month.

Mr. Poole told Mrs. McNeill that although he was a Planning Board representative to the Environmental Commission he took exception to its request and to her letter accompanying it. He said there was no precedent set — the second applicant had been turned down — and several lawyers assured him that the SOC was not in violation of the municipal laws and the DEP regulations in hearing the exemption request and making the recommendation.

"If we appoint people to the SOC at some point we have to say 'these people are doing their job,' " Mr. Poole said.

In a spirit of compromise, Mayor Firestone proposed sending a letter to the SOC, "detailing our concerns," saying that Committee was considering making an appeal but was going to wait a week in hopes of hearing that the EPA approval had come through. Committee concurred.

Thomas Jamieson, attorney for Collins, was in the audience and asked for an opportunity to be heard on behalf of his client if Committee should go ahead with plans to ask for a hearing on the DEP decision.

In other business, Committee approved plans for a canoe rental facility, a picnic pavillion, playground equipment and additional tree trimming at Turning Basin Park at a total cost of $81,705. Most of this money will be reimbursed by a Green Acres grant which has been pending while questions of whether it would be needed for dredging the turning basin itself or for a bridge over the towpath were resolved. The remainder comes from local and privately raised funds.

Mr. Kiser reported that West Windsor was amenable to allowing a small parking area on the east side of Alexander Road to be used by those renting canoes. Mr. Cherry and other members of Committee were concerned about potential safety hazard to those attempting to cross Alexander Road from the existing parking lot. Mr. Kiser was directed to bid out the additional improvements to the park.

Township Seeks $150,000 For Compromise Arches

Time is running out for the Township to find $150,000 for the extra cost of slightly more pronounced arches for the Harrison Street Bridge. According to Township Mayor Gail Firestone, the N.J. Department of Transportation will proceed on the design and engineering of the bridge replacement with two-foot arches if it has not heard this week that the money has been raised.

On Monday night of this week, Committee members agreed they would be willing to appropriate up to $50,000 from the capital budget for the estimated $150,000 extra cost of having four-foot arches. Township Mayor Gail Firestone planned to ask Borough Council for a similar commitment at Council meeting last Tuesday night as TOWN TOPICS went to press.

Mayor Firestone reported to Committee that she had spent most of last week on the phone in a last ditch effort to round up the extra $150,000. The slightly more pronounced arching represents a compromise between the seven foot arches sought by municipal and planning board officials and staff and the two foot arches that the state Department of Transportation offered after the municipality objected to the straight concrete and steel interstate highway type bridge originally proposed.

Mayor Firestone is also seeking a financial commitment of $35,000 from Mercer County, which owns the bridge and will be paying four percent of the $2.35 million estimated to build a two-foot arched bridge. The Federal Highway Administration and the state DOT will pay the lion's share at 80 and 16 percent each.

ONE YEAR LATER: It was a year ago Saturday that the Harrison Street Bridge was closed by Mercer County Executive Bill Mathesius as a safety hazard. In the interim municipal and planning board officials have been endeavoring to get a replacement design that would have the same degree of arching as the original, which is seven feet deep. The depth is measured from the spring point at the top of the pier to the top of the arch.

Although she seemed confident fellow Republican County Executive Bill Mathesius would endorse the county's participation in the extra cost, she did not know whether the Freeholders would agree.

The other amenity for the bridge replacement sought by the municipality and by Princeton University was a second sidewalk, for which the University had said it was willing to contribute $10,000. Mayor Firestone has also asked University officials if this amount could be applied to the four-foot arches, since it is clear that a second sidewalk is out of the question. As of Monday she had not had an answer from the University.

"It makes you angry that the County let the maintenance go, and that we have to fight for a decent bridge design, one that fits in with the uniqueness of the site and with the University campus," Mayor Firestone said. Deputy Mayor Thomas Poole said he "resented" having to put any money from the Township into the bridge, but he also felt "we have argued long enough and it is time to get on with the final design."

Mr. Poole also said the four-foot arches, which are only barely distinguishable on a drawing from two-foot arches, "should be very noticeable in a 180-foot-long bridge." He also asked that West Windsor be approached for its financial support of the improved design.

Okay to Outdoor Display By Historic Sites Group

The Borough Historic Preservation Review Committee has recommended that the Zoning Board allow H. Gross & Co. to display outdoor furniture in front of its Palmer Square store.

The request by the store comes under the jurisdiction of Borough zoning laws because Palmer Square is private property. Shops that wish to display merchandise in the public right of way must make their request to Mayor and Council.

Historic Preservation Review Committee member Fred Travisano said he felt the display adds variety and scale to the block. The gliders and chairs are there, said Henry Gross, because he is attempting to create more of an L.L. Bean "down home" feeling in front of the store.

TRENTON ROUNDUP

"Whistle-Blowers" Protected

Final legislative approval has been given by the New Jersey Senate to a bill protecting "whistle-blowers" — workers who report the unsafe or illegal activities of their public or private employers.

The legislation would protect emplnyees from any kind of retaliatory action when they report or threaten to report activities that are criminal or hazardous to public health.

The measure now goes to the governor for consideratinn.

Good News for Pet Owners

The state Senate voted 33-1 to protect apartment dwellers who have pets. Under the measure, tenants who had pets as of June 16 could not be evicted or forced to give them up. However, a landlord could force a tenant to give up a pet if it is determined to be a "continuing nuisance" to the welfare or property of others.

The legislation would only apply to tenants who had pets as of June 16. If the pet dies, it can be replaced. However, the legislation does not protect tenants who get a pet later or pet owners who want to move into an apartment complex that prohibits animals.

The bill now goes to the Assembly for consideration.

Protecting our Shores

The Senate has approved $6 million from a $50 million bond issue approved in 1983 for shore protection projects.

The bill's sponsor, Sen. Frank Pallone, D-Monmouth, said the measure would provide immediate aid for such projects, but does not remove the need for a stable source of long-term funding. Sen. Fallone is alsn the sponsor of legislation to create a stable shnre protection funding source by establishing a one percent tax on hotels and motels throughout the state.

The measure, which has been passed by the Assembly, now goes to Gov. Kean.

Graffiti Painters, Watch Out

The state Senate has approved a measure that would require court-imposed sentences on graffiti vandals, including a stipulation that they make restitution to property owners or perform at least 20 hours of community service.

Under the legislation, it would be illegal for anyone under the age of 18 to have a can of spray paint in their possession, except under the supervision of a parent or guardian. Stores selling spray paint cans would be required to post signs warning people about the penalties for graffiti.

The measure will now be sent to the Assembly for action

Help for Inmotes

Under legislation unanimously approved by the Senate and sent to the Governor, inmates in New Jersey's state prisons who suffer from emotional or mental problems would be given treatment.

Under the bill, the Departments of Human Services and Corrections must study the problem and draft a plan to provide a broad range of treatment for state prison inmates.

Raises for the Cabinet

Governor Thomas Kean has authorized pay raises of $20,000 to Cabinet members, giving his top advisers a higher salary than his own.

According to Press Secretary Carl Golden, the increases raise the salaries of Kean's 19 Cabinet members from $70,000 to $90,000 a year. The Governor earns $80,000 a year.

The pay raises for the Cabinet open the way for salary increases for about 1,400 deputy commissioners, assistants and division directors working in various departments.

The Governor also approved pay raises for the judiciary, increasing the salary of the chief justice of the Supreme Court from $80,000 to $95,000; the six associate justices from $78,000 to $93,000; the appellate division judges from $75,000 to $90,000; and 345 Superior Court judges from $70,000 to $85,000.

New Car Buyers May Sue

New Jersey residents who buy new cars that prove to be defective or unrepairable may now sue auto makers directly, according to a ruling by New Jersey Attorney General W. Cary Edwards.

The 1983 "Lemon Law" requires buyers of defective cars to first go through manufacturers' arbitration programs before suing. The state Department of Consumer Affairs has determined that none of the arbitration programs meet Federal Trade Commission standards, so car buyers can now sue directly under the law.

In a small town in Vermont concerned craftsmen still make the stuff dreams are made of.

Even though we travel all over the world to bring home the best values and most innovative designs, we're delighted when we find exactly what we've been looking for right in our own backyard. The case in point here, a superbly crafted contemporary bedroom made in a small Vermont factory. Solidly built to last not for years but for generations, the workmen start with a solid hardwood inner frame. Then they finish each piece with details such as real wood drawers that slide smoothly on nylon and steel ball bearing glides.

Stocked in oak, the complete bedroom, which includes many other pieces, may also be ordered in teak or walnut, or in white plastic laminate at slightly higher prices. Our American bedroom. It is the finest we have ever sold.

The Zoning Board is expected to hand down its decision regarding the outdoor display at its meeting scheduled for Thursday evening, July 24, at Borough Hall.

More Area Development Planned by Collins Corp.

Collins Development Corporation, developers of Palmer Square, is planning two new projects in West Windsor.

According to Vice President Gary Green, the firm has signed a lease for land on Vaughn Drive with New Jersey Transit and Amtrak. The Connecticut-based development firm hopes to build an office complex of at least 300,000 square feet on the site of what is now a temporary parking lot.

In addition, the company has appeared before the West Windsor Planning Board with preliminary plans for a 185-unit residential development. The complex would contain 20 percent low and moderate income housing, in accordance with West Windsor's Mt. Laurel zoning. It would be built on Big Bear Road, across from Vaughn Drive and close to the Princeton Junction railroad station.

Mr. Green said that Collins Development will request preliminary approval for the residential project from the West Windsor Planning Board within the next three or four months.

Jewish Center Neighbors See Landscaping Delay

Three residents of Riverside Drive have asked Mayor and Council to deny renewal of the Jewish Center's building permits until the Center meets its landscaping requirements.

In a letter dated July 7, John and Claire Reid, Paul and Louise Erler, and Gary and Beverly Griggs say that the Jewish Center has not met its requirement to landscape and screen the new addition to the Bet Am Building from the residential properties along Riverside Drive. The residents also state that, since the landscaping was a condition for the approval of the site plan, they assumed it would have been completed before occupancy permits were granted.

The matter was placed on the agenda for the Tuesday, July 22, meeting of Borough Council.

In another theft at Community Park, a Terhune Road resident had her wallet stolen Friday while she was swimming in the pool between 5:30 and 6:10. The wallet, which contained, $10, was inside a red tote bag left by the victim on a table in the eating area.

In one of three thefts from a motor vehicle, a resident of Ewing Street last week lost her purse containing $152 and a $99 camera when someone forced open the trunk of her 1981 Datsun, parked overnight in her driveway. Police report that her purse had been locked in the trunk.

Someone smashed a vent window to enter the car of an Indiana resident while it was parked Sunday afternoon in the Graduate College lot. Taken were two duffel bags containing articles of clothing valued at $500 and $1 in cash.

When a Trenton resident returned to her car parked last week on Leigh Avenue, she found the doors locked but the handle on the inside glove compartment had been broken off. Missing is the car's registration and insurance card. Reporting that there was no evidence of forced entry, Capt. Jack Petrone commented, "Someone has a tool to enter cars."

The week's most unusual theft occurred last week at a Jefferson Road home where the owner returned to discover her green parrot was missing.

According to police, someone entered the home overnight by way of an unlocked door, removed a wire that had secured the cage and allowed the parrot to fly out an open window. Police said someone had been tending the parrot while the owner was away. They received no value on the missing bird.

A home on Mount Lucas Road was entered Friday by someone who broke a rear kitchen door window between 8:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Missing from the interior of the house, police said, are a television, stereo set and clock valued at a combined $700 and $21 in coins.

A Grover Avenue home was reported entered this month by the owner, who told police $80 in cash is missing from a living room table.

The victim told police that he discovered a broken cellar window upon returning home. An investigation revealed that the intruder had pushed in the window after breaking it to gain access to the house and then exited by way of the same cellar window.

Cement Wall Damaged At Hun School Campus

Vandals visited the Hun School campus last week where the Bowers Construction Company is doing some work on the school's academic center.

First, Township police report, the vandals threw cinder blocks off a wall under construction and then damaged a four by five-foot area of the wall by dropping an explosive inside the wall. About 25 blocks were cracked by the explosion and repair damage was estimated at $350.

A Littlebrook Road resident called police at 1:07 Friday morning after he was awakened by the sound of breaking glass. Police report the rear windows of a parked 1984 Honda and 1979 VW station wagon had been broken with rocks. The caller reported seeing two suspects run east on Littlebrook and then hearing the sound of a car engine starting.

At 8:30 the same morning a resident of Shady Brook Lane reported that the rear window of a 1977 Olds parked in his driveway had been smashed and his mailbox stolen. Less than an hour later a Snowden Lane resident called to report finding the missing mailbox.

Four tires of a 1978 Honda were punctured with what police believe was an ice pick while it was parked overnight in the Princeton Packet parking lot. The victim, an employee of the Packet, placed a $250 value on the tires.

In another act of criminal mischief involving a parked vehicle, the upper two headlights of a 1979 Ford van were smashed while it was parked last week in the drive of its Magnolia Lane owner. Replacement cost: $40.

$750 Window Punctured. The outer pane of a six- by eight-foot insulated window of a Lake Drive home was punctured last week by a small projectile which police believe may have been on air rifle pellet. Police said the outside pane of the rear window, valued at $750, was penetrated but not the inner pane.

Borough police report that a window pane in an overhead sliding door at the Gulf Station on Nassau Street was shattered last week, causing $50 in damage. No projectile was found at the scene.

Beer Raid Goes Awry Three Teenagers Nabbed

Five teenagers in search of some beer had devised a simple plan: steal some from the kitchen of the Cloister Inn on Prospect Avenue.

One youth had entered the club's basement through a window and was about to open a basement door to let four companions, including two girls, inside when a resident of the club heard a noise in the basement at 2:01 Monday morning. Investigating, he discovered a youth inside the kitchen. When another resident observed the four others waiting outside the club next to the window, the two girls ran off.

Police said that the club's residents were able to hold the remaining three in custody until police arrived. The three, two aged 17 and one 16, were arrested and charged with burglary. All are residents of Princeton.

Police report they will be treated as juvenile delinquents and processed by the juvenile court.

Cycle Caper. Two more Princeton juveniles, 16 and 17, got into trouble last week when they attempted to ride a motorcyle down a hill on the university campus near Spelman Hall.

Following their 12:43 a.m. ride, they were apprehended by university security officers and turned over to Borough police. In allowing the cycle to fall over at the end of their ride, the youths, police said, damaged its gas tank, wiring system and right brake handle. It is owned by a Princeton University student.

Charged with criminal mischief, the two youths have been processed as juveniles and will appear later in juvenile court.

after they were flushed Saturday afternoon from a women's apparel shop on Palmer Square.

The store manager, police said, suspecting the two of shoplifting, called out to them They ran from the store and south on Palmer Square into a restaurant. Police were unable to locate them after a search but did recover a $36 scarf in the women's lounge of the restaurant. It was returned to the store.

Youth, 15, Is Charged With Liquor Possession

A 15-year-old youth from the Training School for Boys in Skillman, whom, police said, had privileges to be in Princeton, was charged here Friday as a minor in possession of alcohol. He was later turned over to authorities at the school.

He was first observed around 8 p.m. as one of a half-dozen youths in an alley next to Davidson's Market on Nassau Street by Det. Randy Sutton on car patrol. When Det. Sutton also observed an exchange of something among the youths, he called for a backup. As he and Sgt. Charles Davall then approached the group, one of the suspects, holding a brown bag, fled.

He jumped a fence into the Park Place lot, was later cornered in a rear yard and placed under arrest.

The officers determined that the bag the youth was carrying contained a pint of rum which was smashed when he discarded it in running from the police.

A further investigation revealed that an unidentified adult had purchased the rum from a Princeton liquor store and that the youth was from the Training School on legal absence in Princeton.

Miss Leroy was treated at Princeton Medical Center, after she complained of neck injuries. A 17-year-old passenger from Belle Mead was treated at the same hospital for minor injuries.

Miss Leroy's car had to be towed from the scene.

possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana.

In Township court last week, Gregory Gogo, 1571 Lawrenceville Road, Lawrenceville, was fined $75 for speeding.

A complaint summons has been signed against Regina P. DiCara of Trenton, for passing a bad check in the amount of $49.77 in April at Jordan's Gift Shop in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Joint Meeting Is Urged On Need for Public Bus

In one of its first acts, the recently formed Borough Traffic and Transportation Committee has urged Mayor and Council to communicate at once with the Township to see if a special joint committee can be established to consider a joint response to the need for public transportation in Princeton.

At its first meeting, on June 25, the Traffic and Transportation Committee heard Estelle Johnson of Clay Street talk about the difficulties encountered by people in the John Witherspoon area since the "loop" bus ceased operation. This route, formerly run by Mercer Metro and then New Jersey Transit, was last operated by Princeton Area Transport. The company stopped the bus in April, citing losses of $2,000 a month.

The committee's minutes state, "That company gave up the route on which these people were mostly dependent and today they must take taxis, which they cannot afford, or walk, which many cannot do. The social need for reasonable transportation was recognized by both municipalities some years ago. The need is no less today; in fact, since then the chain stores have moved out of town to the shopping center and are no longer within walking distance, and the social need today is even greater."

Mayor Barbara Sigmund said she plans to meet with the Township to concentrate efforts on two possibilities.

The first, said the mayor, would be to obtain a subsidy for Princeton Area Transport to operate the loop bus. The second would be to utilize the wheelchair van promised to Elm Court as a tailor-made transportation system for those in other parts of town.

"The operation money for this," said the mayor, "could come from casino revenues funneled through New Jersey Transit to the Borough or another entity."

No date for the joint meeting has been set.

Three Charges Lodged Against Leigh Ave. Man

A 24-year-old Leigh Avenue resident has been charged with three offenses, following his arrest at 5:26 Saturday morning.

Roberto Tonelli has been charged with driving while intoxicated, theft of a 1960 pickup and possession of a switchblade weapon. He is scheduled to appear in Borough Court August 6.

Tonelli was first observed by Ptl. David Dudeck at the intersection of Nassau and Witherspoon Streets. The officer's attention was drawn because every time Tonelli attempted to enter Nassau Street his pickup truck would stall.

As Ptl. Dudeck approached the truck, he allegedly detected an odor of alcohol on the driver. A further investigation revealed that the truck was unregistered, was owned by the Princeton Recreation Department and was to be used only on the recreation grounds.

Tonelli was arrested and taken to headquarters where he submitted to a breath test.

While at headquarters, Tonelli was also found to be in possession of the knife. Police later turned the pickup truck over to an employee of the Recreation Department.

Contract Is Approved By Univ. Library Aides

A two-year contract calling for a nine percent raise the first year and a six percent increase the second has been approved by Princeton University library aides, according to union officials.

The final agreement was reached with the help of a federal mediator after a six-hour session.

The union and the University had been negotiating since May. There were five sessions before talks broke down three weeks ago.

This year, according to Union President Kevin Shopland, library aides are earning between $10,000 and $14,000. Most of the jobs are clerical, but some require a college degree and proficiency in languages.

The union, affiliated with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal employees, represents some 190 library aides at the University.

Help for Back Pain At University Hospital

The Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in New Brunswick will offer the Back School, a new program designed to instruct persons in all age groups about how to avoid back injuries. It is open to those who suffer from low back pain as well as those with healthy backs.

The program consists of two consecutive class sessions held on the last Tuesday and Wednesday of every month from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Hospital, beginning July 28 and 29. Participants will learn about the basic anatomy of the back along with proper posture, body mechanics and nutrition. Classes are conducted by members of the Hospital's Physical Therapy staff.

Registration is required because class size is limited. A fee of $35 covers registration, handouts and refreshments.

For further information or to register, call the Physical Therapy Department at Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital at (201) 937-8623.

Evaluation Scheduled For Swim, Diving Classes

The Recreation Department will hold evaluations for the Learn to Swim/Learn to Dive classes, which will be held August 4 - 29. The evaluations are scheduled for 10 to 11:45 a.m., Wednesday through Friday, July 30 - 31 and August 1.

Any children who are Princeton residents or season ticket holders may come to the pool to be evaluated and placed in a class. The cost for the program is $10 per child for a four-week session. All children must be 4 years old as of November 30.

For additional information, call 921-9489.

Telecommunications Is Focus of Open House

Jack Perlstein, host of WWFM's "Daybreak," will be on hand to discuss careers in broadcasting. Demonstrations in the TV studio will allow visitors to operate cameras and see themselves on television monitors. The satellite earth terminal will also be operational.

For further information, call 586-4800, extension 712. Groups are welcome to attend.

SAT Workshop Planned; Three Sessions at YWCA

The YWCA will sponsor a "High Scores PSAT and SAT Workshop" to prepare high school students for the fall semester tests. The three-session workshop will meet on Monday and Tuesday, August 4 and 5, and Thursday, August 7, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The workshop includes intensive review of key concepts in mathematics and verbal skills. Emphasis is also given to understanding the different types of test questions so that students can apply their knowledge successfully in the actual test situation. Also featured are test-taking, timing, and confidence-building strategies.

"High Scores" PSAT/SAT workshops have been conducted at Rutgers University, Northwestern Michigan College and colleges and community centers throughout New Jersey. For registration flyer contact the YWCA at 924-5571.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

CONTROL FOR SLUGS & SNAILS

with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Here's a 4 point program for keeping the slugs in your garden from overwhelming the veggies. You can come to a truce where they won't eat you out of house and home, yet you won't have to kill them yourself. SAND - slugs' skin is only one cell thick, so they emit slime to slide over sharp or unpleasant terrain. Baby slugs, very small, make a very thin layer of slime and are easily discouraged by a texture that wouldn't deter their big fat parents. When peas are planted in early spring, most of the slugs are tiny babies. They don't like to crawl through sharp river sand, but hang out in force in nice soil high in humus.

HIGH NITROGEN FERTILIZER - slugs prefer to eat soft, slightly rotting tissue. When plants are deficient in nitrogen their lower leaves turn yellow and gradually decay. Feed plants a form of readily available nitrogen and they will outgrow mild slug damage.

UNDER COVER. When you set out tender young plants in spring there are the Huns, ready to attack. Give your plants their own fortresses. Take clear plastic two-liter soda bottles, cut off the bottoms, take off the labels and use them as mini cloches for early spinach, lettuce and broccoli. Just be sure all the enemy is on the outside or you'll have very happy slugs.

SLUG PATROL - If all else fails, start an evening slug patrol, handpicking from the most heavily infested areas. Some people squish the slugs, others toss them away. Hope this will be helpful to gardeners and, if you need advice on your trees and shrubs, give WOODWINDS (924-3500) a call. We'll be glad to help!!!

Historical Society Cites Importance of Morven

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter I have sent to the Governor:

Like many others in Princeton, the board of the Historical Society of Princeton has heard that the New Jersey Historical Society is intending to vacate Morven. If and when that happens, we assume that the State will once again take custody of the house.

We are deeply concerned for the building's future; and we know that public concern for the building is likewise high. Morven is an historical site of great importance not only to New Jersey but to the nation. If managed with the highest professional standards, it could be, as it should be, a showplace of which the State could be justly proud. We hope that the potential of Morven will be recognized and that it will be accorded the serious kind of treatment it deserves.

Because it is so important a site, we ask that this Administration will allow time for proper consideration of the best stewardship arrangement for Morven and that the agency selected to administer the site will have the highest professional qualifications for fulfilling this historic public trust.

We would be happy to render whatever assistance we can to the State in its decision-making processes.

Community Pool Closing Questioned by Resident

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Having just been turned away from Community Park Pool, I would like to register a protest concerning the criteria used for closing the pool during its regular hours of operation.

This morning I approached the pool entrance at opening time, ready to swim my usual laps, only to join a group of five or six other regular adult swimmers being told that the pool was closed. The reason given was that due to the "mist" and 75 degree temperature, the staff would catch a chill and get sick if required to work. The pool would open, we were told, if it stopped "misting" later.

It seems obvious that the criteria for closing the pool due to weather conditions should be based on safety factors, such as the presence of thunder and lightning, not the preference or convenience of the staff. Many adults in the community swim seriously for fitness, and we should not be deprived of that opportunity because someone doesn't like being out in a mist.

I subsequently learned that the pool did indeed open later in the day. However, that was not much help to those of us standing at the gate at opening time. I suggest that the criteria for closing the pool be made public, perhaps included in the Recreation Department brochure. Then perhaps we could avoid the annoyance of arriving at the pool gate in perfectly good swimming weather only to be turned away.

Board Urged to Support Affordable Housing Here

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following is the text of a letter I have sent to the Regional Planning Board of Princeton.

Mayor Barbara Sigmund has asked me to express my views to the Planning Board on the subject of affordable housing in Princeton. Because I was unable to be present at the Board meeting on July 17, I am respectfully submitting this letter.

As a long time Princetonian, I have come to the conclusion that much of the greatness of our community lies in its social continuity, its historic roots. Since our part of New Jersey has been caught up in a land scramble of investors and developers, the delicately structured fabric of Princeton's human ecology has become threatened. The ethnic and economic mix which has made it possible for our Princeton to strive to exemplify a happy microcosm of American culture is being jeopardized by rapidly escalating land values pricing social diversity out of the marketplace.

May I here strongly urge the Planning Board to do its very best to facilitate the development of affordable housing in all parts of Princeton. This will help to preserve the historic Borough whose unique character has made her dear to us and our predecessors over the years.

The enduring values of an egalitarian community will represent a solid base from which to launch into the 21st Century. On the other hand, blindly riding the boom town syndrome inevitably leads to the bust.

"The Belle of Amherst" Should Not Be Missed

To the Editor of Town Topics:

If you appreciate good theatre, don't miss The Belle of Amherst at Rider College. The production is in its final week, July 24th to the 27th.

Catherine Allgor, as Emily Dickinson, gives a superb performance that will linger in your mind long after you leave the theatre. When I attended the show on Friday night the audience gave her a standing ovation. We longed for more.

The day will come when you'll see her name on Broadway and the London stage. Treat yourself to a memorable evening, go to see The Belle of Amherst. You'll be glad you did.

Another Perspective On Town and McCarter

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to share with you another perspective on community involvement in and loyalty to the McCarter Theatre. In 1973, when Dan Seltzer approached us about becoming charter members of the McCarter Associates, I shared with him the reasons for my very positive feelings about McCarter. My wife and I have been loyal contributors since that time.

Earlier that winter I had driven my daughters to an audition for the PJ&B production of Carousel. They needed tenors for the chorus. I had never sung before but auditioned and was accepted. I have since sung in many PJ&B productions and I have served on the stage crew of one. While I do not believe I have contributed much to the musical theater, the experience immeasurably enhanced my ability to appreciate real theater and professional musicals.

What I expressed to Dan Seltzer was that those few nights on the stage of McCarter made me aware, as no words had ever done, of the many skills required of the actors, director, musicians and technical staff. I had not understood the feats of scheduling needed to coordinate the many who shared the theater.

I had not recognized the amount of work, and skill required in costuming. I had no idea of the space requirements to move sets on and off stage or of the problems created by lack of space to store them. At McCarter in particular I had no idea of the limitations of the wings, back stage access and dressing rooms.

On the stage at McCarter I experienced fear that I would not perform as well as I ought; I was elated when the production went well. As I wrote then, I felt for a few minutes that first night that the McCarter Theatre belonged to me. It is for that feeling and for the awareness of the theater that I acquired that I am indebted to PJ&B and Milton Lyon.

I was pleased by something that followed that first year, a mini ripple effect. I had not wanted my named in the list of contributors, but it was printed in error. I know of several individuals who joined the Associates because of this and I have never again requested that my name be left off the list.

My loyalty to McCarter began with Milton Lyon and PJ&B. We have subscribed to the Drama Series every year since. Some seasons have been better than others; some plays have been better than others. One of the constants has been the community involvement in PJ&B. Now, according to one newpaper article, Nagle Jackson is said to believe that it is time for a change.

There may be a parallel in the story of the Roundabout Theater Company in Montgomery County Maryland. I do not know how they are doing now. They began as Street 70, a part of the Montgomery County Department of Recreation, with considerable community involvement similar to PJ&B. As they grew and became a true professional company, they abandoned their community involvement. The last I knew, several years ago, attendance had slumped and I was told they were having serious difficulties. I do not want to see this happen to McCarter.

I believe that loyalty and financial commitment follow involvement. I also believe that, however talented they are, artistic directors come and go. Milton Lyon has been the one constant in this theater for 25 years.

I have no doubt about the artistic commitment of each of the directors since we came to Princeton 20 years ago. (I may have been one of Michael Kahn's only supporters among my acquaintances after he took the trouble to explain his view of McCarter's role — somewhat different from my own.) But I do question whether any of them have Milton Lyon's commitment to or understanding of the community in which McCarter lives.

Time for a change as Mr. Jackson is supposed to have said? I hope not, unless McCarter finds funding easier than many other organizations do today.

Are We Killing PJ&B? If So, Be More Direct

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As one who had the grim distinction of working at McCarter during what was artistically the most godawful year in Ms. Kinsey's definition of "recent history," I can attest to the folly of replacing Milt Lyon.

Mr. Jackson's own efforts are clearly superior to the embarrassment of the immediate post-Lyon era; the problem is that Milt had the savvy to hire the then-unknown A.P.A. company for the first true season of Recent History — and nothing since has come close to matching what Rosemary Harris and friends provided for us that year.

The University later chose to replace Milt with someone whose paper credentials seemed impressive; the consequences of that decision were painfully obvious almost at the outset. Unfortunately, the high-level Pooh-Bahs who inflicted that regime on McCarter let it continue for years, rather than admit to their mistake.

As for PJ&B: Unlike your patient critics, I have no tolerance for bad amateur productions, simply because they are amateur — lousy is lousy. But Milt's first production of Fiddler on the Roof remains to this day the best I've ever seen of that warhorse, at any level, and A Little Night Music was very nearly as good.

You do not axe someone who is capable of making that happen simply because an arbitrary time period has passed (if that were true, much of the best work of the legendary English actor-managers would never have been).

Dumping Milt and scheduling Pinofore (here? now? again?) seem to be Mr. Jackson's way of killing PJ&B altogether. If that is his intent, then let's cut out the Machiavellian machinations and discuss the merits and demerits of that option directly.

Earnings Up 22 Percent United Jersey Reports

United Jersey Banks has announced net income of $13.4 million for the quarter ended June 30. "This is a 22 percent increase over the $11.0 million reported a year ago," said United Jersey's Executive Vice President/Finance, John R. Haggerty.

United Jersey's earnings per share rose to $.87, compared to $.77 per share in the second quarter of 1985.

Net income for the first six months of 1986 reached $26.4 million, an increase of 22 percent over the $21.6 million earned for the first half of 1985. This amounts to $1.74 per share compared to the $1.51 per share earned for the same period the prior year.

"Commercial loans continue to be the major contributor to earnings, reaching almost $2 billion at June 30," said Mr. Haggerty. This reflected an increase of 24 percent over the $1.6 billion in commercial loans at the same date last year.

Further Loan Growth Seen by Howard Savings

The $3.9 billion Howard Savings Bank, has borrowed $100 million through the Student Loan Marketing Association (Sallie Mae), Washington, D.C. The funds, which were obtained in the form of a secured advance from Sallie Mae, will be used to accommodate additional loan growth.

In 1985, the Howard, which has a branch in Princeton, originated more than $43 million in student loans, and at year-end 1985, had 61,255 student loans with a value of $177 million outstanding.

Zoning Changes

tee, Planning Director Duggan Kimball said the reductions represent "the best judgment" of Planning Board consultants specifically Garmen Associates of Somerville, hired to do a traffic analysis of the entire community in relation to existing zoning.

"For some time the Planning Board has had an intuitive feeling that the peak hour traffic had reached unacceptable levels," Mr. Kimball told Committee, "especially in the OR zone. The process of attempting to bring into balance land use planning with circulation goes back a long time."

He cited the recommended change in the OR-3 zone to RM as being initiated by concern over traffic projections and as being the first step in a process that was now including Bunn Drive. "Bunn Drive was even more of a concern," Mr. Kimball said, "but a more complicated situation because of existing and ambient travel and more complicated surrounding road system."

He went on to explain that the Planning Board did not have the "tool" to evaluate the situation in a more scientific and empirical manner. The recently completed Garmen study has provided the tool, a computerized model of the entire road system "to give us the ability to make concrete recommendations based on real fact," Mr. Kimball said.

Gary Davies of Garmen Associates told Committee that the proposed changes in the two OR districts (down zoning, to permit less density of development) would take more than 2,000 cars off neighboring streets and compared that number with the daily traffic on Route 206. He said that it is difficult to know for sure what is going to happen in areas such as Route 1, let alone be able to control that development.

"The real problem," Mr. Davies said, "is what really is going to help. If you take 2,000 cars off the streets, that will help." He pointed out that the Princeton office development zone is entirely surrounded by residential areas.

Committeeman William Cherry asked why the Township had to sacrifice rateables when the major problems lie outside the community. Mr. Kimball responded that what the Township does is not in isolation and is part of an ongoing process. He cited the dialogue with Montgomery Township over traffic on Cherry Valley Road and Route 206, which was part of the process leading to the proposed change in the OR-3 zone on the Township side of Cherry Valley Road and changes by Montgomery in its RM zoning on the other side of the road.

Moreover, talks with the State Department of Transportation over Route 92 and Route 206 pointed up the fact that municipal actions, specifically those related to land use policies, have resulted in the growth which clogs the roads and leads the DOT to design highway improvements, Mr. Kimball pointed out. "The DOT says we are our own worst enemy," he added.

Planning Board Chairman Hans Sander told Committee that six years ago the permitted FAR in the OR zone (there was only one district then) was at 45 percent. He and Mrs. Elizabeth Hutter undertook their own study and discovered that under that percentage, the permitted building footage, parking lot, loading docks and drainage area all added up to more than the lot area. The Planning Board then recommended two zones of six and eight percent FAR, respectively, with the boundary being what was then known of the extent of the ridge.

Committee, under Mayor Josie Hall, instead adopted OR-1 and OR-2 zones of 12 and 18 percent FAR, respectively, which is the present zoning. Mr. Sander said the Planning Board was benefitting now from having a professional planner and from the collective wisdom of Garmen Associates and Wallace Robert & Todd, who are helping with the Master Plan update. "We now have a basis of judgment and an underpinning that is a solid entity" in making zoning changes.

He suggested that the OR1, 2 and 3 changes are "the beginning of other things to come in the future."

A Protest Heard. Just as Committee was getting ready to introduce the amendment on first reading, Thomas Jamieson, attorney for Church & Dwight, rose to argue against introduction on what he called procedural grounds. Church & Dwight, known principally as manufacturers of Arm and Hammer baking soda, has located its corporate headquarters on the corner of Bunn Drive and Harrison Street.

According to Mr. Jamieson, the company purchased the former American Can building and made an addition to it in the expectation that it would be able to expand. The company had made several moves in the past and looked on the move to Princeton as permanent, investing close to $10 million dollars in the purchase and renovation of the property.

"That investment has been for all practical purposes cut in half," Mr. Jamieson remarked. Church & Dwight is presently built to a FAR of seven percent, or 66,000 square feet and under present zoning could expand to 18 percent, or 174,000 square feet, according to the OR zoning and land use analysis made by Garmen Associates.

"We would urge you to look at the scores of alternatives for controlling traffic generation," Mr. Jamieson said. He cited alternative use, such as in the recently approved variance permitting residential townhouses granted to Michael Giardino by the Zoning Board. He also cited van pooling and flextime requirements.

Voice rising, he said that the property owners had asked for an opportunity to talk with the Planning Board as an ad hoc committee about these kinds of alternatives, to forestall a zoning change, but had been told to wait until the Garmen study had been completed.

He said there had been no discussion with the affected property owners on the impact of this proposed zoning change and asked for time for Church & Dwight to hire its own traffic consultants before the ordinance was introduced "and takes on a life of its own."

Mayor Gail Firestone assured him that public hearing does not necessarily mean adoption. Planning Board Attorney Gerald Muller said that the Planning Board was in a "bind" because it must act on a major office development by August 24. He was referring to the four office buildings totalling 128,000 square feet proposed by Dr. and Mrs. William Lowe of Chatham Capital Associates off Bunn Drive.

With Committeewoman Carol Wojciechowicz abstaining because of what she called "circumstances beyond her control," the four other members of Township Committee voted to introduce the ordinance and scheduled a public hearing at its next meeting on Monday, August 4.

Under land use law, the ordinance must be discussed and voted by the Planning Board, before Township Committee takes final action. Thus the public hearing on August 4 will be the first of several opportunities for public comment. Because of vacations and conflicts, Committee will not have a quorum again until Monday, August 25, which it scheduled as an extra meeting in place of the meeting August 18.

Shirley Court

known during the proceedings by a murmered "Amen" to Planning Board member James Sayen's comment, "Shirley Court has been a disaster too long."

The Borough needed the Planning Board's cooperation in order to proceed with its plan for low, moderate, and middle income housing. Eight units would be built at two sites at John and Clay Street; 28 units on the Maclean Street parking lot; and 16 units on the open space on Hamilton Avenue next to the playground.

Shirley Court — the only area for which the Borough asked a designation of blight — would have its 16 units rehabilitated under the program.

An appraisal of Shirley Court was recently completed by Karl Light, who testified at the meeting. The Borough is currently negotiating with owners Benjamin Kahn and Paul Harvey to purchase Shirley Court. The designation of blight, however, is necessary if negotiations fail and the Borough decides to condemn the property through its power of eminent domain. If that occurs, a commission would be established to determine the selling price.

With attorneys for Mr. Kahn and Mr. Harvey in the audience, Borough Attorney Walter Bliss noted that the statute defines five criteria for blight, and said that only two refer to substandard housing.

Housing consultant Allan Mallach told the Planning Board that the Borough needed the designations in order to meet its obligations under Mt. Laurel and the Fair Housing Act. He said there was no privately owned developable land in the Borough, and stressed the advantages of the Borough's development of the housing sites as opposed to bringing in a private developer.

Karl Light, describing what he saw when he examined Shirley Court, said that on June 18, he, an associate, and Mr. Kahn toured seven of the eight buildings owned by Mr. Kahn and five of the eight units belonging to Mr. Harvey.

The physical standards in Mr. Harvey's buildings are substandard, "totally uninhabitable," said Mr. Light. "I tried to make a catalog of deficiencies but I stopped. They were too extensive."

He noted that five of the eight units belonging to Mr. Harvey are uninhabited. "There are no operative heating or eleetrical systems; no kitchens."

Of the buildings owned by Mr. Kahn, Mr. Light said that efforts have been made to update them. He noted that in many cases the heating system was renewed four or five years ago and there were new electrical systems in five of the eight.

However, he said that some linoleum flooring was worn through, the walls were in need of attention, there was no weatherization, and he doubted if there was insulation. "For $395-$400 a month, you can't get much," he said.

Mr. Light said it was obvious that divided ownership has caused problems. "The overview of the street and housing is poor," he noted. "It represents a prime example of stagnant and unproductive use of land."

Deadline Nears. Mayor Barbara Sigmund, who sits on the Planning Board, reiterated the need for the Board to act that night in order that the Mercer County Improvement Authority may float bonds for the $5.7 million project by September 1. This is the final date the Borough may obtain arbitrage in the bond market and use the profits thus received to subsidize the proposed housing.

Attorneys for both Mr. Kahn and Mr. Harvey asked for an opportunity to present their cases opposing the designation of blight for Shirley Court at a later date. This request was denied by the Planning Board, its attorney noting that both owners have 30 days in which to appeal such a designation after it has been made.

It was well past 11 p.m. when members of the audience were given a chance to speak. James Floyd, former Princeton Township mayor, said, "those of us who have lived in the John Witherspoon area will support your efforts to remove that blighted area [Shirley Court] as soon as possible." Emma Epps, Birch Avenue, told the Board that "72 years ago we talked about this same thing; when are we going to do it?"

Looking at Mr. Kahn, she said, "Yes, Mr. Kahn, you don't take care of your properties. Neither did your father."

Estelle Johnson of Clay Street stated that Shirley Court was a blight, but expressed concern that the John Witherspoon neighborhood would be too crowded after the housing was built. "If you crowd more people in that little area, you're going to have problems."

Ward Taggart, a resident of Olden Street who is a volunteer firefighter, said he has lived in Princeton all his life and he can't afford a house. "I'm glad something is going to be done."

An Eyesore. Dr. McFarlane declared that Shirley Court is an eyesore and an embarrassment next to his church. "I see everything in the area being beautified. You'll be hearing from me over and over."

He had said outside the meeting that whatever will provide more affordable housing for the community has biblical precedence. "In the Old Testament Book of Nehemiah, Nehemiah the Prophet was brought back to Israel to rebuild a city in ruins."

A different note was struck by a Witherspoon Street resident who is part owner of five houses in the neighborhood. "How do I know six months from now you won't come to me and say the same thing you're saying to Mr. Kahn?" she asked. Mayor Sigmund told her there was no chance this would happen.

At its meeting scheduled for Tuesday, July 22, Borough Council was expected to adopt the Planning Board's report designating Shirley Court as blighted and the other four proposed affordable housing sites as areas in need of rehabilitation.

Morven

converting Morven into an historic site-museum was formulated with the New Jersey Historical Society. A Greek Revival mansion built in 1834 by Charles Olden, Drumthwacket was purchased by the state in 1967 from Mr. and Mrs. Abram Spanel.

In April, 1981, the NJHS announced a campaign to raise $4 million from private sources: $2 million would be used to convert Drumthwacket into a residence appropriate to the needs of the chief executive of New Jersey, the remainder would be used to endow Morven, which would become a central New Jersey branch of the Society and converted to an historical center/museum.

The Morven-Drumthwacket corporation was formed to oversee the renovation of Drumthwacket in time for the new governor to move in during January, 1982. A lease was negotiated between the state and the Society under which the state agreed to pay exterior maintenance costs and utilities. The lease was signed in October, 1981, to become effective January 21, 1982.

According to Mr. Coin, two things happened which served to effectively stall the necessary fund-raising before the goal was reached. After the inauguration of Governor Kean, conditions in the lease agreed to under Byrne were disavowed by the new administration, specifically the exterior maintenance and utilities costs. "It came down to they (the state) agreed to cut the grass, but that's all," Mr. Coin says.

$50,000 Increase. The new lease substantially increased the Society's cost of operating Morven to the tune of $50,000 annually, he notes. The state's reneging on the original commitment also had a chilling effect on fundraising. "The board of governors became disenchanted," Mr. Coin says. "They lost heart."

At the same time, it became clear that Governor and Mrs. Kean were not going to move into Drumthwacket with their children as had been expected but intended to remain in Livingston and use the mansion solely for official functions.

Drumthwacket had been renovated and furnished in the mid-19th century Empire style of the time in which it was constructed. But it soon became known, as NJHS Chairman Robert B. O'Brien phrased it in the Society's official newsletter of March, 1983, "that the new chief executive and his family had a somewhat different idea of the role, function, and furnishings of the governors' residence. This meant potential changes in facilities and in decorations, at a greater cost to the Society."

The original furniture was sold in March, 1983, in an effort to reduce the $400,000 debt incurred by the Morven-Drumthwacket Corporation to undertake the $2 million renovation. Mrs. Kean's stated preference for Queen Anne furniture instead of the Empire-period pieces that had been provided received a great deal of attention in the media. That, plus the perceived lack of interest on the part of Governor Kean in either mansion and in the Society's efforts brought the fund raising to a complete halt. Some corporations cancelled their pledges, Mr. Coin says.

The NJHS, which had directed all of its fundraising efforts for two years toward Drumthwacket, never succeeded in raising any of the $1.5 million for Morven. Operating at a deficit for the first time in its long history, the Society resorted to borrowing in order not to touch its $2 million endowment

Mr. Coin paints a hair-raising picture of indebtedness and disarray during these years — of many thousands of dollars owed in 90-day delinquent bills, the telephone being shut off, the house at 40-degree temperatures because of no oil delivery, and visits by an IRS agent to collect the $31,000 it was owed.

Without a Director. Mr. Coin says he wrote a letter to each of the 30 board members, whom he believes were not fully aware of the crisis. Having "let go" Joan Hull, its longtime executive director who had no authority to raise money but was under fire as deficits continued, the Society was without a director for a year and a half before Barry Rosen was selected last winter, he says.

For Mr. Coin, the situation came to a head in March, when the Society decided it would sell off some of its "non-Jersey" material in an effort to get out of the hole. The Society's collection of the signatures of all the Signers of the Declaration of Independence were sold "right out from an exhibit" he had mounted at Morven. "That distressed me no end," he says and was one of the reasons he quit last April.

A VENERABLE LADY AWAITS NEXT PHASE: Having led a full life as home for 100 years to a family of importance in New Jersey history, and then serving as the executive mansion for four New Jersey governors, Morven sits back from Stockton Street, serene in the summer sun, quietly awaiting the next development. Under the terms of the gift to the state, Morven must be used as a museum or executive mansion.

ly aware of the significance of Morven, not only to the state and the nation but also to the community. Mr. Felzenburg says that at the request of the Governor he has been working with representatives of the DEP on a plan to "administer Morven in a different way."

He believes Morven is "special and should be treated in a special way." Although the mansion was not the home of a President, and thus not a notional shrine like Mount Vernon and Monticello, he uses those two sites as examples of the way historic homes can draw on the resources of the community and nearby educational institutions to enhance their own attractions as an historical and cultural museum.

Mr. Felzenburg says that input of groups such as the Historical Society of Princeton will be welcome in the process of working out a plan for Morven and promises an announcement as soon as it is ready.

Morven

Five of the Signers were New Jerseyans, not in keeping with the Society's "non-New Jersey" material policy, but historians say that the NJHS sold a great deal of "Jerseyana" as well.

According to Mr. Johnson, the purpose of taking on Morven was to expand the visibility of the New Jersey Historical Society in the central and southern portions of the state. Mr. Coin believes Morven had the potential to be a drawing card for the Society. "We could have raised $30,000 in new memberships if a membership drive had been launched," he says, "But no drive was initiated.

"The museum shop at Morven could have turned an annual profit of $25,000 if it had been set up with sufficient inventory." Mr. Coin stocked it with some items, paying for them out of his own pocket (for which he was later reimbursed) but acknowledging that they weren't enough and of sufficient quality.

"Morven could have been used as a development tool for the Society," he believes, "but nothing took place. There was no clear-cut authority. I'd be told I could let the house for weddings, and then I'd be told 'no weddings.' "

As a result, he says, Morven fulfilled the gloomy predictions of those within the Society who were opposed to an expansion of the organization beyond the Newark headquarters into central New Jersey.

Although several modifications to the original lease have been negotiated with the state over the five-year period, one section of the original agreement persisted and proved pivotal to the Society's decision in May to withdraw from the mansion. The section stipulated that if the Society had not raised the $1.5 million endowment, or made "good progress" toward raising that amount, the state had a right to take the house back.

Operating at a Loss. As the current lease came up for renewal, and the Society found itself $1.5 million shy of that goal, and operating at a loss, the governors decided to allow the state to reclaim its responsibility. The vote was not recorded in the minutes, as Dr. Rosen acknowledges, and those present were asked not to discuss the matter. The usual monthly meetings were suspended until September.

The result, as Mr. Coin notes, is that "no one knows anything." The state has scheduled — and cancelled — three separate dates "to take back" Morven, he says. Moving vans to remove the Historical Society's furniture have similarly been scheduled and cancelled.

"Nobody knows what the state wants to do," Mr. Coin says. "Will it be an historic site? Will they save it for a lieutenant governor?"

Todd Caliguire, counselor to the governor who has been involved in the negotiations, said he had "nothing to say." "There are discussions underway, and when we have the answers there will be an announcement. But at this point there is nothing definitive," he said.

What of Morven today? As an historic site, the property is under the jurisdiction of the Department of Parks and Forests in the Department of Environmental Protection. The exterior has recently been painted by the state and "looks beautiful," according to Mr. Coin.

The Historical Society's furniture is still in place and tours are conducted every Wednesday at 10, noon and 2 by Mrs. George Dorman, who was social secretary under the Byrne Administration for eight years and presently serves as volunteer docent. Her son is presently living in the mansion as a caretaker.

Al Felzenburg, Assistant Secretary of State and a Princeton resident interested in historical and cultural affairs, says that the Governor is keen-

THE CHANGING FACE OF PRINCETON: Across the entire north end of Princeton, through which runs the rocky, wooded, steeply-sloped ridge, there are major development proposals in the works. Site plans and subdivisions approved by the Planning Board in the last two years, or currently pending, are shown in light grey. From top left the applicants and the name of the proposed development, if known, include:

A. CPR Associates/Pretty Brook: 334 acres purchased from Princeton University by Texas architect Cheung Chu and partner John F. Preston who wish to develop 44 large lots for single family homes. Application has been reviewed in concept by Planning Board.

B. deMenil Trust: 109 acres owned by family described in N.Y. Times Magazine article as one of the nation's wealthiest. Tract was subject of litigation following 1980 Master Plan zoning change increasing minimum lot size; 1984 settlement allows 44 residential lots; application for 40 lots on file with Planning Board.

C. Pretty Brook Corporation/Brooks Bend: 130 acres purchased by M. David Giardino from Peyton estate for development by son, architect Michael Giardino; 25 large lots for single family homes approved 8/7/84; some homes presently under construction.

D. GRD Associates: 53 acres, 25 residential lots approved 11/7/84. Subsequently purchased by J. Woodruff Stone in partnership with Nassau Savings and Loan. Mr. Stone has redesigned the subdivision to meet environmental concerns of municipal planning director, but because the zoning was changed in the interim he will need a variance to keep the same number of lots.

E. Dundas Corp.: Timothy Sheehan and family, owner. No information available,

F. Dravo Corp./Princeton Ridge: Three parcels totalling 227 acres long held by subsidiary of the Pittsburgh firm Gibbs and Hill. Applications for high density development of as many as 623 units have been presented to the Planning Board over the years, but the land is designated a low-growth area in the State Guide Plan and for low density development under Township zoning. The site has been the subject of litigation over further reduction to three and four acre minimum lots. The zoning suit was later dropped but joined with the Calton Homes Mt. Laurel exclusionary zoning litigation. Negotiations to settle each of these suits are presently underway.

G. Arcaro: 55 acres owned by Angelo Arcaro and currently zoned for office/residential use. A Cherry Hill developer, Stephen Samost and son John, has option to purchase tract and two years ago proposed 65 small office buildings. In 1985, the Planning Board proposed reducing the permitted density on the land, part of which is on the environmentally sensitive ridge.

Currently, the Board seeks to change the use to moderate density residential (RM).

H. Peterson/PCH: 26 acres owned by Dr. and Mrs. Burnetta Peterson on which Princeton Community Housing has an option to build 280 townhouses under the Township's affordable housing ordinance. One half the units would be sold at market, the other half reserved for low and moderate income families. Reviewed earlier in the year in concept, a more detailed site plan will be discussed by the Planning Board August 5.

I. Princeton Gateway Corporate Campus: 26 acres, including the Mary Watts Store, being developed by John H. McCarthy III and RD Development Corp; final approval for two office buildings totalling 62,000 square feet granted 11/6/85.

J. Design Interface/Mountain Lakes: 70 acres purchased by development subsidiary of The Hillier Group, which has offered 52 acres to the Township for open space in exchange for right to build 30 units of clustered "manor" houses (luxury townhouses). Planning Board has also reviewed concept plans for 26 lots and for 23 lots. Township has applied for Green Acres grant and two percent loan to purcahse the entire property for open space in keeping with 1980 Master Plan designation.

K. Yedlin/Foulet: 60 acres purchased from Princeton University by Benedict Yedlin who received final approval for 19 out of 37 single family homes in February, 1985, just after a ban on new sewer connections was imposed by state DEP. Under an agreement with the state, and approval from local authorities Mr. Yedlin is constructing a holding tank to keep sewage from entering the over-loaded municipal system during periods of high rainfall.

L. Chatham Capital Associates: 18 acres owned by Dr. and Mrs. William Lowe of Chatham, N.J., on which four three-story office buildings totalling 128,600 square feet have been reviewed in concept by Planning Board.

M. Ricciardi: Plans for one office building of 34,000 square feet on file with Planning Board.

N. 100 Thanet Corp.: Two office buildings totalling 101,000 square feet approved 12/4/84. First is already built.

O. Giardino/Terhune Courts: 25 acres under purchase contract by M. David Giardino, on which son Michael Giardino, architect, plans to build 65 townhouses and new clubhouse for Italian-American Sportsmen's Club. Necessary variances approved by Zoning Board last week; site plan and subdivision will also require Zoning Board approval.

P. Ettl Farm: 180 acres under contract purchase for possible residential development.

AHEAD TO THE PAST: It will be here soon enough! Better plan to preserve family history and tradition by having your keepsakes and small heirlooms put back into good functioning condition. I refer to those treasures that you or your children grew up with and which now might evoke wonder in new generations and fond memories in older ones. I do that fussy kind of antique restoration work on any item smaller than a Rosebud sled. Tom Pipecarver, 4 Spring Street, 921-0860.

The Jewish Center's Rabbi Glazer: A Man Doing the Work He Loves

A boy of 15 at summer camp in the Poconos received a letter from his mother at home in Atlanta telling him that his rabbi and congregation had offered to send him to a Hebrew Academy in Philadelphia. The rabbi was to call for his decision the next day.

When Rabbi Epstein called, Melvin Glazer had made up his mind. He would go.

"I was scared to death but I decided to do it," said the man who, one year ago, arrived from Tennessee to assume the post of rabbi at Princeton's Jewish Center.

Rabbi Melvin J. Glazer

Rabbi Epstein and his Conservative congregation paid tuition, room and board for Melvin Glazer's three years at the Akiba Hebrew Academy in Philadelphia and then went on to pay his full college tuition, housing and other expenses. In a combined program, he was awarded a B.A. in philosophy from Columbia University and a B.H.L in Modern Hebrew Literature from the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York in 1969.

Although Rabbi Epstein resisted all pressure to insist the young man became a rabbi, the young man did. In May, 1974, Melvin Glazer graduated from the Jewish Theological Seminary and was ordained a Conservative rabbi.

Rabbi Glazer's family were Conservative Jews. But his grandmother, an Orthodox Jew, helped raise him and instilled in him his Jewish feelings. "She also gave me a playfulness and taught me not to take myself too seriously," he says.

He would accompany his grandmother to synagogue on Saturday mornings, and each time the rabbi would begin his sermon, she would walk out and go into the back room for a glass of schnapps with the old men.

"One day I asked, 'Bubbie [grandmother], how come you don't stay for the sermon?' She looked at me and replied, 'Feh.'

"There are people," said Rabbi Glazer, "who may say the same thing after they hear what I have to say."

Southern Boyhood. Growing up in Atlanta, where his grandfather had come as a peddler to earn a living and raise his family, Rabbi Glazer recalls walking into department stores and seeing four bathrooms and two water fountains — separate facilities for blacks and whites. "I could never understand," he says.

But the fact that his family voted for George Wallace for president made him aware that calling names was useless. He also realized how important it was to be sensitive when trying to change people's minds. "I loved my family, but I disagreed completely with them on this."

Rabbi Glazer's southernness is dear to him. And part of this heritage is a great fondness for gospel music. "I must be the only rabbi in the country who wakes up each morning to gospel," he says. He loved listening to the service at Princeton's First Baptist Church on Martin Luther King Day. "I was home," he says.

Music figured in his life in a unique way when he lived in Nashville. There, on Christmas Day, he went on the air to replace a local disc jockey, who was then able to celebrate the holiday. His show, which he relished doing, was called "The Best of Christmas and Country" and interspersed country and western music with the music of Christmas.

Beginning His Career. Rabbi Glazer's first post was as an assistant rabbi in South Orange. There, he recalls, he received his indoctrination in the practical rabbinate. He then spent four years as a rabbi in Grand Rapids, Mich. ("a small, wonderful, caring Jewish community") and five years in Nashville at the West End Synagogue.

He is married to the former Donna Cilman, whom he met while they were both in the combined program at Columbia. Mrs. Glazer received a B.A. in French literature and a B.H.L in Modern Hebrew Literature in 1972.

They were married the year she graduated. The couple has four children, Avi, 8; Ilan, 6; Shoshana, 2; and Rafi, two months.

is not affiliated with any movement. "The reason is that we want to be responsive to the needs of all Jews in the Princeton area," says the rabbi. "If we can build a congregation based on our respect for each other's Jewishness, even if different from one's own, that's what I want to do."

He has begun to become involved in the Princeton Clergy Association "because we are all creatures of God. We all live in the same world and we share concerns having to do with justice, shelter, freedom, and jobs."

He also hopes to sensitize his non-Jewish colleagues to some of his own concerns, particularly having to do with the State of Israel.

New Directions. Under Rabbi Glazer's direction, two new groups have begun this past year at the Jewish Center. One,

Singer Barbara Cook In Performanee Here

Singer Barbara Cook will return to McCarter Theatre for a one-night appearance on August 16 at 8 under the auspices of "Why Not Memphis?" This is a Princeton-based organization committed to presenting a wide variety of popular and emerging performing artists in various venues in the greater Princeton area.

From her debut appearance at Carnegie Hall to her appearances at San Francisco's Davis Symphony Hall and Washington's Kennedy Center, Barbara Cook has entertained audiences throughout the country with her musical evening of "Barhara Cook in Concert."

She began her career in the musical theatre as the lead in the musical Flohooley, which led to other leading roles in Oklahoma! (national touring company), Carousel, Plain and Fancy, and to the roles of Cunegonde in Leonard Bernstein's Candide and Marian the Librarian in The Music Mon.

In addition to her work in musicals, Barhara Cook originated the role of Patsy in Jules Feiffer's Little Murders and starred, for a year, in the Broadway production of Any Wednesday. She has made eight original cast recordings, two Ben Bagley albums of Jernme Kern and George Gershwin songs, as well as an album entitled Songs of Perfect Propriety, which is a collection of Dorothy Parker poems set to music hy Seymour Barah. Last September, Miss Cook appeared with the New York Philharmonic as Sally in the concert version of Stephen Sondheim's Follies.

Tickets for "Barbara Cook in Concert" at McCarter Theatre are $13.50 (rear orchestra), $18.50 (rear balcony), $23.50 (front orchestra and balcony) and $28.50 for box and grand tier seats. For concert information and reservations with major credit cards, call 683-1528.

Mail orders are welcome. Send ticket requests to "Why Not Memphis" — Barbara Cook Concert, Princeton Arts Council, 102 Witherspoon Street. Specify seating preference, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and make checks payable to "Why Not Memphis."

McCarter's Shakespeare To Be Held This Weekend

Four Romeos and four Juliets in the same production of Shakespeare's timeless tragedy of young love? Add two Nurses and Friar Lawrence split into three roles, and you've got McCarter Theatre's 5th Anniversary Season production of Shakespeare's Summer — a four-week intensive comprehensive theatre program for teenagers, culminating with performances of Romeo and Juliet, Saturday and Sunday.

Performances will be held outdoors in the courtyard of Holder Hall (complete with balcony!) on the Princeton campus, at 1 and 5:30 p.m. Admission is free. For information, call 452-5156.

Director of the program is Penelope Reed, who serves as the director of the Kirby Arts Center and chairman of drama at the Lawrenceville School. The four "sets" of Romeos and Juliets (each in a separate act) are: Jennifer Rosen and Chris Parks, Juanita Vega and Ethan Hawke, Rebecca Rhodes and Rob Garver, Susan Kroll and Jerry Casagrande. The role of the Nurse is divided between Jennifer Chromy and Dana Silverman.

Friar Lawrence is "split" (with the "new" roles of 'Sister Joan' and 'Brother John') among Matt Spiegel, Kim Yeo and John Fitzgerald. Other roles include: Mercutio, Tad Troilo; Capulet, Lyle Zimskind; Benvolio, Adriann Wright; Lady Capulet, Colleen Bashaw; Tybalt, Erik Farber; Montague, John Fitzgerald; and Lady Montague, Laura Mosiello.

Also in the cast are Leo Balestri, Lisa Politi, Cynthia DeGroff, Jerry Lenaz, Jenn Sabasko, Aneesh Chopra, Jim Fessler, Leah Napoleon, Aurora Bearse, Lorena Sayer, Jenn Thurman, Lisa Davidson, Kerry Espenshade, Laura Hahn, Tamar Perfit, Heather Robinson, and Juliet Johnson. The three musicians, who will perform live, are Corinna Gilfillan, Heather Robinson and Debra Levin.

Two Double Features At Kresge Auditorium

Nazi Germany during World War II is the setting common to both films opening the fourth week of McCarter's Summer Cinema '86 season at Kresge Auditorium. The Tin Drum will be shown Wednesday-Friday at 7:15 and Mephisto at 9:45.

Compared with it, crystal bells seem to need a little more rehearsal time. And even the odd angel appears slightly impure ... I don't want to oversell the lady, but for 90 minutes I just thought I had died and gone to heaven."

Best Foreign Film Oscar in 1979, is Volker Schlondorff's cinematic adaptation of the epochal novel by Gunter Grass, itself a ferment of myth, satire, political polemic and religious symbolism. Grass's story — and Schlondorff's film — center on the life and times of little Oskar Matzerath (David Bennent) who, at the age of three, decides not to grow any more physically because he does not wish to participate further in the obscenity of adult existence.

Instead, armed with his little tin drum and a shattering scream that is his ultimate weapon, Oskar chooses to bear witness to the folly and evil deeds of his elders. We see his family life, the awakening of his sexuality, his loving relationship with the charming midget in the circus he joins, and his donning a Nazi uniform when he and his troupe entertain troops at the front. In what is a thinly transparent metaphor for modern Germany, Schlondorff creates a film that is at once outsized, bizarre, and eccentric.

Isvan Szabo's Mephisto, which won the Best Foreign Film Oscar in 1982, is based on the 1936 novel by Thomas Mann's son, Klaus. Its subject is an actor's gradual betrayal of political and moral principle in return for professional advancement in Nazi Germany. In the title role, Klaus Maria Brandauer gives a manic, success-obsessed portrait of an actor's soul in a whirlwind of sound and fury as he claws his way from a regional stage in Hamburg to the directorship of the state theatre in Hitler's Berlin.

Summer Cinema's geographical focus shifts to England for the double-feature of Saturday and Sunday: The Shooting Party, at 7:30 and The Go-Between at 9:30. The Shooting Party, which is especially notable for the last screen performance by the late James Mason, is set in the autumn of 1913 as the war clouds gather over Europe. A cross-section of the English gentry has gathered at the estate of Sir Randolph Nettleby (Mason) for a weekend of shooting.

While various game birds are pursued outdoors, other rituals proceed indoors: liasons, adulteries, and adorations among the upper crust and their servants. Adapted by Julian Bond from a novel by Isabel Colgate, and directed by Alan Bridges, The Shooting Party is a keepsake of Edwardian England as it sounds a note of receding faith and grandeur. The cast, in addition to James Mason, includes Sir John Gielgud as a daft animal rights activist who disrupts the shooting.

The Go-Between was the third screen collaboration between director Joseph Losey and writer Harold Pinter. While capturing the emotional highs and lows of puberty and of turn-of-the-century English society, the film is also a charming tale of casual cruelty and a terrifying picture of an innocent love. A 13-year-old boy who has been invited to the country home of a wealthy school friend for the holidays finds himself carrying notes between his friend's engaged sister (Julie Christie) and an earthy farmer (Alan Bates).

The supporting cast includes [illegible] Michael Gough, among others.

Single admission for a single or double feature is $3.75 at the door.

THE BELLE OF AMHERST: Catherine Allgor appears as Emily Dickinson in William Luce's beautiful and sensitive play about America's greatest female poet in the Stage One Productions presentation at the Rider College Studio Theatre. The production has four performances remaining Thursday through Sunday. Call 683-0444 for ticket information.

Two Changes Announced In Kresge Film Series

Two program changes have been made to the Summer Cinema series at Kresge Auditorium.

Koos has been cancelled for Wednesday to Friday July 30-August 1. In its place, Summer Cinema will present the double feature of El Norte at 7:15 and The Official Story at 9:45 p.m.

On Wednesday-Friday, August 20-22, the second half of the double feature will be Woody Allen's The Purple Rose of Cairo, not Bread and Chocolate. Purple Rose will be screened at 9:30 p.m., following Fellini's Romo at 7:30 p.m.

This Is the Final Week For Princeton Rep Play

The Princeton Rep Company continues its world premiere run of romcom: A Romantic Comedy by Phyllis Purscell at the Triangle Broadmead Theatre, 171 Broadmead, this weekend.

The production features Carol Kehoe as Kate, a young woman who has become jaded about romance, and Timothy Davis-Reed as David, the foolish young man who tries to win her heart. Carol Kehoe and Timothy Davis-Reed will reprise the roles of Kate and David that they created for the rehearsed reading of the play at the Women's Project of the American Place Theatre in New York.

Playwright Phyllis Purscell, a resident of Newtown, Pa., is a recipient of a New Jersey State Council on the Arts Playwriting Fellowship. The presentation is produced and directed by Victoria Liberatori under a small professional theater contract of Actors' Equity Association.

On Thursday, a discussion with the playwright, actors, and director will follow the performance. As romcom is a new play and is receiving its world premiere, the audience can make an invaluable contribution to the play's future progress by participating in these evenings with their questions and comments.

On Saturday after the 8 p.m. performance, an informal reception for the playwright will be held. Reservations must be made in advance for these evenings as seating is limited.

Performances are Thursday through Saturday at 8, with matinees on Saturday and Sunday at 3, the last performance. Tickets are $10, with senior citizen, student and group rates of $8. Call 921-3682 for ticket reservations and information. Tickets will be held at the door.

Ten Solid Brass Players Set for Outdoor Concert

Solid Brass, a New Jersey group of 10 brass players, will perform this Wednesday evening at 8 as part of the Outdoor Chamber Concerts series.

Concerts are held in the Graduate College Courtyard, with Richardson Auditorium the back-up in case of rain. Call 452-5977 for exact location after 4 p.m. if weather seems in doubt.

Founded in 1982, the Solid Brass Ensemble has a growing reputation as one of the premier brass groups of the northeast. The group consists of four trumpets, four trombones, horn and tuba, and members are all experienced professionals. Their repertoire is drawn from the festive music of the 16th-century, augmented with selected 19th-century and contemporary lighter works.

Whirling Dervishes Due For Concert in Park

The Whirling Dervishes from Union County will perform this Thursday in the fourth concert of Summer Sounds '86. The series, sponsored by the Arts Council and the Recreation Department, will begin at 7:30 in the Community Park North amphitheatre.

Named after a traveling cult from Turkey who performs by dancing and twirling themselves into a sort of religious frenzy, the group has released two extended-play discs, History Kicks and Affordable World. Their music, described variously as "pop-psychedelia" and "dark pop," has been heard on college stations and on [illegible] zine.

Performers include Bob Ardrey on guitar, Don Dasso on vocals and John Bryan on drums.

The free concert is made possible by a grant from the Princeton Youth Fund. Rain date is Friday. For more information call 921-9480.

A jazz fusion group known as the Fusionaires will play the following week, Thursday, July 31, at 7:30. The group has recently performed at the Chestnut Cabaret in Philadelphia and at Mikell's in Manhattan.

The band features two new members, Dave Regan on soprano and tenor saxes, and Peter Gregory on drums, along with John McCracken on guitars and Willard Wright on electric and vertical basses. Two full sets of original music will be played for the first time at the concert, which will he a highly eclectic blend of jazz, rock, funk, punk and the avant garde.

Robert Shaw to Conduct Concert in Richardson

Robert Shaw will conduct a concert of "Four Landmarks of 20th Century Choral Music" on Saturday evening at 8 in Richardson Auditorium on the campus of Princeton University.

The works will be performed by a choir of more than 200 musicians who come each summer to Westminster Choir College to study and sing under the well-known choral conductor. Mr. Shaw and the same choir will appear at the "Mostly Mozart Festival" at Lincoln Center in New York on August 1 and 2.

The concert here will consist mostly of a cappella works, with one additional work sung with a brass ensemble. The program will begin with Francis Poulenc's Mass in G Major. Mr. Shaw will divide the large choir into several three-part ensembles shifting in and out of eight parts. The Mass was composed in 1937.

Friede ouf Erden, Op. 13, composed by Arnold Schonberg in 1907, will follow. A setting of Peoce on Eorth by the Swiss poet C. F. Meyer, the work is scored from four to eight parts in rich, harmonic tonal [illegible]

After intermission, the choir will sing Aaron Copland's In the Beginning, composed in 1947 and scored for mezzo-soprano and chorus. Rosa Lamoreaux, heard frequently at the Kennedy Center in Washington, and acclaimed for her performances in Europe, will be the soloist.

Paul Hindemith's rarely performed work Apparebit repentina dies will close the concert. The piece was written for the Symposium on Music criticism held at Harvard in 1947. The text is taken from the Oxford Book of Medieval Latin Verse. Mr. Shaw will conduct the large chorus with the addition of four French horns, two trumpets, three trombones, and bass tuba.

Mr. Shaw is the musical director of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra and Chorus. His association with Westminster through the summer Robert Shaw Workshop began in 1972.

Reserved seats are $12, $10 and $8. They can be purchased directly at Westminster Choir College in the Summer Session office; or by mail by sending a check with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Summer Session, Westminster Choir College, Hamiltnn Avenue and Walnut Lane, Princeton 08540, before Monday.

Box office sales at Richardson Auditorium will be on July 24, 25 and 26 between 4 and 6. For more information, call 924-7416.

Subscriptions Available For University Concerts

Princeton University Concerts will present two series of internationally acclaimed artists during the 1986-87 season. Events range from a solo vocal recital to a performance by one of Europe's foremost orchestras.

The "Chamber Masterworks" series offers three string quartets and an award-winning piano trio, while "Virtuosi in Recital" provides four evenings of music-making by some of today's finest recitalists. In addition, subscribers receive a free bonus event: a concert of Renaissance and classical keyboard music played on original instruments.

The Chamber Masterworks series opens with a concert on October 9 by the Endellion String Quartet. This youthful group, formed in 1979, has toured the U.S., Europe, Australia, and South America. Their playing has earned them three top prizes in international chamber music competitions.

Monday, July 14, 1986

To all qualified choral singers
in the Princeton area:

In the late 40's, I prepared a chorus for Pierre Monteux and the San Francisco Symphony for performances of the Berlioz "Requiem." I vowed at the time that I would conduct this great work one day myself, and I do believe that the time has come!

On the weekend of April 10-12, 1987, I intend to conduct the Berlioz in two performances. The chorus will be made up of the combined Princeton University Glee Club and Chapel Choir. The orchestra, with its sumptuous complement of brass and timpani, will be gathered from the University and from the area. The concerts will take place in Richardson Auditorium.

The Glee Club and Choir will total about 100 voices; about 50 more voices are needed to secure adequate balance with the orchestra. Therefore, I am publishing this invitation to audition for the additional choral complement, and putting it in TOWN TOPICS in the middle of the summer, so that interested Princeton residents will have first chance.

The additional chorus will rehearse no more than once a week during the major part of the preparation, and will combine with the Glee Club and Chapel Choir as we get closer to the concerts. Rehearsals will be arranged so that there is no, or minimal, conflict with the rehearsal schedules of choruses and choir to which individual members may already belong. This invitation is intended as a reasonable and pleasant solution to the performance problems represented by a specific, great work, NOT as the first step in the organization of a new community chorus.

If you are interested, and if you are an experienced soprano, alto, tenor or bass, please phone Mrs. Custis Clark at 452-3048 weekday mornings between 9 a.m. and noon through August 8. She will take down information and assign you an audition time, if possible between August 15 and 30, later if necessary. Many thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Walter Nollner
Professor of Music
Director of Music in the University Chapel

performance by the Mendelssohn String Quartet aod on April 2 with the New Arts Trio, winner of the 1980 Naumburg Award for Chamber Music, in concert. One of the world's most esteemed performing groups, the LaSalle Quartet, will close the series on May 7. Twice a winner of the Grand Prix du Disque for their recordings of the quartet literature, the LaSalle was formed in 1949 and has played together in over 50 European tours as well as engagements across the U.S.

A wide variety of performers and musical styles will mark Virtuosi in Recital. On October 14, the Helsinki Philharmonic will inaugurate this series with the music of Finnish composers Jean Sibelius and Aulis Sallinen as well as the popular fantasy overture Romeo and Juliet by Tchaikovsky. The Helsinki Philharmonic is the orchestra which premiered many of Sibelius' works under the composer himself.

On November 6, Virtuosi in Recital continues with the Connecticut Early Music Society performance of Handel's masque, Acis and Galatea. The Society is under the artistic direction of early music specialist, John Solum, and the noted harpsichordist, Igor Kipnis. A February 12 recital by the soprano, Arleen Auger, is the next installment in this series which concludes with a performance by pianist Cynthia Raim.

Subscriptions for both series are available until October 1 from the Concert Office of Princeton University. For more information, call 452-5707.

READY FOR RICHARDSON: The Lehner Trio will perform piano trios by Haydn, Hagen, Beethoven and Brahms Tuesday at 8 in Richardson Auditorium. The group takes its name from its coach, Eugene Lehner, a violist with the Boston Symphony and the Kolisch Quartet.

New England Trio Set For Richardson Concert

The Lehner Trio will perform piano trios by Haydn, Beethoven, Hagen, Schubert and Brahms Tuesday at 8 in Richardson Auditorium. The concert is one of the Summer Chamber Concerts normally held outdoors at the Graduate College.

The Lehner Trio is a young ensemble living in Boston, Mass. Its members, Lenora Anop, Julie Ross and Robert La Rue are students at the New England Conservatory of Music, where they are coached by Eugene Lehner, violist of the Kolisch Quartet and the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

This past season, the trio performed for the Harvard Musical Association and at the Conservatory in Boston, as well as at Columbia and Yale universities. In August, the trio will be coached by Menahem Pressler, pianist of the Beaux Arts Trio, at the Banff Music Festival in Canada, where the group has received a full tuition scholarship.

The program at Richardson Auditorium will include Trio No. 43, Haydn; Trio in E-flat, Opus 70, No. 2, Beethoven; Trio Concertante, Hagen; and Trio in C Major, Brahms. Admission is free.

Barbershop Harmony Honored by Mayor

Trenton's Mayor, Arthur J. Holland, has proclaimed July 26 to be Barbershop Harmony Day in New Jersey's capital city.

The proclamation recognizes the joint efforts of the Princeton and Levittown, Pa. chapters of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, and the Milltown Valley Chapter of the Sweet Adelines, Inc., to promote harmony throughout the community.

The three singing groups will be combining to present a concert of barbershop harmony celebrating "The Good Olde Summertime" in the Trenton War Memorial on Saturday at 8. The performance will be for the benefit of an organization which provides therapy for children suffering from speech defects, as well as for adults whose speech has been impaired by strokes or other trauma — the Institute of Logopedics in Wichita, Kansas.

Tickets at $5 for general admission or $6 for preferred seating may be ordered by calling 890-8939 or 924-0565, or may be purchased at the door, while they last.

Princeton Post 76 Team In Position to Win Title

With two games left to play in the regular season, Princeton Post 76 at the start of this week was positioned to win its first title ever in the Mercer County American Legion League.

"We control our own destiny," said Princeton manager Larry Bender. "I'd rather be where we are than where the other two are."

Post 76 is locked in a struggle to the end for first place with Hamilton and Bordentown. With a 1-0 victory over Hopewell Post 339 Sunday — a masterful two hitter by Jay Jordon — Princeton stayed on top of the race with a 20-5 record. The win, its third in three days, was its eighth in a row.

Hamilton, with a 4-2 victory over Mitchell Davis, and Bordentown, with a 2-0 shutout of Hightstown, both remained tied a game back at 19-6.

Post 76 will end its regular season this Wednesday in a showdown with Hamilton at 5:45 on Field 2 at Mercer County Park. Bender, however, views Tuesday's scheduled contest with Hightstown as the key game. A win there would insure Princeton of at least a tie in the final standings.

"I'm not worried about Wednesday," said Bender at the beginning of the week. "If we can win Tuesday, then all the pressure will be on them [Hamilton and Bordentown]."

Bordentown will end its season Wednesday against Lawrence Post 414 on its home diamond and was scheduled to oppose Broad Street Park the previous day. Hamilton was scheduled to tangle with the last-place Trenton Schroths on Tuesday.

It is still possible for the league to end in a three-way tie as it did last year when Post 76, Bordentown and Hightstown all finished the regular season with 20-7 records. Hightstown went on to win the league championsbip.

Although Princeton is guaranteed a berth in the playoffs, Bender would like to capture the league title, avoid a playoff struggle and thus be able to rest his team before the start of the N. J. American Legion state tournament on August 2. The league champion receives an automatic berth in the state tourney.

The League playoff between the second, third, fourth and fifth-place teams is scheduled to begin Saturday at Moody Park in Ewing Township.

This year for the first time, three teams from Mercer County will compete in the state tournament. In addition to the league champion and the playoff champion, the runner-up in the playoffs will also receive a state tourney bid.

Two-Hitter by Jordan. With every game a must win, Post 76 hurler Jay Jordan responded to the pressure by tossing a two-hitter Sunday against Hopewell at Mercer Park. Also limited to two hits by Chris Prophett, Princeton won the game with an unearned run in the final inning.

Jordan, who began the week with a two-hit, 8-0 victory over Broad Street Park, struck out five and walked one in going the route for his third win in five decisions. He did not allow a runner past second base. He was touched for a single by Hopewell's leading hitter, Dave Ryan, in the first inning and a single by Hun School's Rick Brenner in the third.

For its part, Post 76 was unable to break through Prophett, who limited the league leaders to a single by Mike Walker (off Prophett's leg in the first) and a bunt single by Darren Villani.

Post 76 won the game without a hit. Chuck McCall walked to start the seventh. Dave Sisson, hunting, had a 1-2 count when Prophett lost him by firing three straight balls. "Sisson had the patience at the plate," commented Bender. With that, Hopewell manager called on rightfielder Steve McGuire to replace Prophett on the mound.

Jordan, up next, missed a bunt sign from Bender and lofted a fly to center, placing runners at the corners. Then

The Mercer County All-Stars Defeat Bucks County Stars

A seven-run second inning powered the Mercer County American Legion all-stars to an 8-2 victory over the Bucks County all-stars Saturday at Mercer Park.

Eleven players batted around for the Mercer all-stars in the second inning, which started with a lead off single by Darren Villani of Princeton Post 76. Princeton was the most represented team on the 28-man roster with five players.

Hightstown Post 148 catcher Ed Horowitz, who had a two-run single and a three-run inside-the-park home run in the seven-run rally and then added an RBI triple later, was named the game's Most Valuable Player. Steve Lyons of Hamilton Post 31, one of six pitchers used by Gordon Tantum, manager of the Mercer Team, got credit for the win.

With the win, Mercer evened its series with Bucks County at two wins apiece.

Here's an unusual baseball fact ... A player once hit 3 home runs into 3 different states in the SAME game! ... It was done by the great athlete, Jim Thorpe, in a semi-pro game played in a ballpark on the Texas-Oklahoma-Arkansas border ... Thorpe's first homer went over the left field fence with the ball landing in Oklahoma ... He then hit one over the right field fence into Arkansas, and his 3rd homer was an inside-the-park home run in center field, which was in Texas.

One of the most amazing heavyweight boxing championship bouts of all-time was the famous Jack Dempsey-Luis Firpo title fight of 1923 in which Dempsey knocked Firpo down 9 times in 2 rounds, and then Firpo knocked Dempsey OUT OF THE RING -- but, Dempsey got back in the ring, knocked Firpo out, and remained world heavyweight champion!

Hopewell catcher Mark Olszak fired the ball to second as Sisson broke for the bag and the ball bounced into centerfield. McCall trotted home from third on the error with the game's only run.

"Their player had a mental lapse," recalled Bender. "All we wanted to do was to get Sisson to second to avoid a double play and we wound up winning the game. We got a break."

Bender also cited the errorless defensive play of his team in the win — and the pitching of Prophett, who walked five and fanned six. "He pitched a nice game," said Bender. Prophett had pitched out of jams in the second, third and sixth innings when Hopewell had two base runners in all three innings. In the sixth with runners on second and third and one out, Prophett fanned hard-hitting Craig Ender and Walker to end the threat.

Three Easy Ones. The previous day, Post 76 coasted past Lawrence, 9-2, and the day before that, it breezed, 9-3, against cellar-dwelling Trenton. It began the week with an 8-0 shutout of Broad Street Park in a win featuring Jordan's two hitter and a two-run homer by Ender. Villani stroked a pair of doubles as he, Ender and Dean Brender drove in two runs in the BSP win.

Against Lawrence Saturday in a makeup of Wednesday's rained-out game, Post 76 scored in every inning but one, plating four in the fifth. Billy Byrne worked six innings and gave up six hits in getting the win — his third without a loss. Arendas paced Princeton's 11-hit attack with three hits. Tim Rumer and Sexton added two apiece as Rumer, Villani, Arendas and Walker all doubled off losing pitcher Chris Colavita.

Two Doubles for Rumer. More doubles, this time five, including two by Rumer and one each by Villani, Jordan and Ender, powered Post 76 past Trenton. Sexton drove in three runs, two in the second inning, when Princeton took a 3-0 lead.

Rumer was just as effective on the mound for Post 76 as he was at the plate. He limited Trenton to five hits in picking up his sixth win against one loss. Trenton, which slumped to 7-17, hurt its own cause by committing five errors.

Ficarro's Half Game Back In Women's "A" League

In posting shutout victories last week over Miller Beer and Vermeer North Atlantic, the Princeton-based Steve Ficarro's Auto Body increased its record to 17-4 in the Mercer County Women's A League. Despite the wins, Ficarro's still trails league-leading 3 Seasons by a half game in the standings.

With five games left in regular season play, Ficarro's will next oppose fifth-place Keystone Fabricating on Thursday at 8:30 p.m. on Field 2 at Mercer County Park.

In action last week, Ficarro's 10-0 victory over Miller Beer was halted after 4½ innings under the 10-run rule.

Ficarro's was led at the plate by Janet Swick, Grace Durland, Dot Krumpfer and winning pitcher Clare Baxter, each connecting for two hits.

Baxter, who allowed only six hits in the Miller win, was even stingier against Vermeer, yielding four hits en route to an 8-0 shutout.

Baxter's teammates erupted for 13 hits, including a double and two singles by shortstop Diane Kelly; two hits including a triple by Dee Vertucci and two more including a double by Swick. Cindy Lombardo contributed a three-run homer.

Kelly, second baseman Doreen Ragazzo and left centerfielder Debbie Smyth all made fine defensive plays throughout the contest for the victors.

The defensive highlight, however occurred when Vermeer's Mary Foxx lined a drive past right fielder Krumpfer. The ball rolled to the fence 290 feet from home plate before Krumpfer was able to chase it down. She relayed the ball to Ragazzo at second who in turn fired a strike to catcher Durland to cut down a sliding Foxx at the plate.

Andy's Edges Hinkson's In Princeton Softball

Andy's Tavern edged league-leading Hinkson's, 2-1, last week in a battle of homers, to trail the leaders by one game with two left to play in the Princeton Recreation Men's Slo-Pitch League.

All the runs came off homers. The deciding one came in the last inning off the bat of Andy's Jason Petrone. Hinkson's had a solo shot by Len Carella but Andy's then evened the score on Ron Kane's homer.

With the win, Andy's split its four games with Hinkson's this season. It may be too late, however, for last year's regular season champions, who, after a slow start have come on to win seven in a row and 12 of their last 14.

Because the two front-runners will not face each other the final week of play, the most Andy's can hope for is a loss by Hinkson's and two wins of its own.

Hinkson's, strengthened by players from former teams (the league has shrunk to six teams this season) has been the suprise team in the league. It got off to a fast start by winning 10 of its first 12 games.

Third-place in the upcoming league playoffs appears to be in the firm grasp of Lestician Trucking while C Square C and Ball Busters are battling for the fourth and final spot with C Square C holding the advantage.

Andy's, which has a team batting average above .400 and is averaging 10 runs and a dozen hits per game, recently earned a berth in the Eastern Regional Class D National Tournament which will be held Labor Day weekend in Brookhaven, N.Y.

After competing in the 42-team Softball Tournament at Mercer Park recently, Andy's finished in fifth place with a 4-2 record. Among its victories was a 14-2 conquest of Miller Beer, one of the top contenders in the Mercer National League and a victory over The Hair Factory, a leading team in the Bordentown League.

Players on Andy's include the five Petrone brothers — Jack, James, Judd, Jason and manager Jeff. Also Pat Kahny, Ron Kane, Steve Simcox, Scott Porreca, Kevin Phox, Jim Lennon, Anthony Cirullo, Ken Bruvik, Alex Versfeld and pitcher Jeff Grover.

Doubles Tournament Set At Mercer County Courts

This year's annual mixed doubles tennis tournament will have a new feature: an 'A' Division for mixed doubles teams with a 4.0 and over rating. The 'B' Division will be open to all teams with a 3.5 and below rating.

The tournament will be held August 2 - 8 at the Mercer County Outdoor Tennis Center in Mercer County Park. Division 'B' matches will begin August 2 while Division 'A' matches will begin August 4.

The single elimination tournament is open to all County residents and those who have a 1986 Tennis Center season pass. The fee is $10 per team, which includes a new can of tennis balls. Deadline for entering the tournament is August 1.

Regular Season to End In Men's Lacrosse Loop

Regular league play will end Thursday in the Princeton Men's Summer Lacrosse League — weather permitting — when Green will oppose Red at the Valley Road field.

In the upcoming playoffs, the top two teams, currently unbeaten Maroon (6-0) and Grey (4-2), will draw byes and the number three team will face the sixth team in the final standings and four will oppose five.

In the semifinals, one will play the winner of four versus five and two will play the winner of three versus six.

In action last week, Grey defeated Orange, 14-4, and Green topped Red, 14-8.

In contests earlier in the week, Grey defeated Red, 11-2, getting three goals each from Jim Tulley and Pat Lackey and a pair from Jeff Hilton. League manager Bob Campbell had one goal and four assists. Dave Forey scored both Red goals.

Orange edged Navy, 4-3, behind Jim Jones and Mike Shannon who scored two goal each. Shannon's second was the winning goal.

Jim DeLang, Jon Geller and Ron Teresky scored for Navy.

Girls Lacrosse. In two games early last week in the girls summer lacrosse league, Green defeated Red, 9-5, and Blue-handled Yellow, 8-2.

Audrey Chen with four goals paced Green, while teammates Lee Jamison and Katie Leahy added two each and Bernice Chen one goal.

Liz O'Donoghue tallied three second half goals for Red, who also received goals from Amy Causing and Rebecca Royal.

Six players scored for Blue, who spurted to a 6-1 halftime lead over Yellow. Amy Kershaw and Liz Hewson each had a pair of goals for the victors while Susan Jones, Deborah Cedeno, Alison King and Elisa DeRochi contributed single goals.

Beth Vasta and Karen Calloway scored for Yellow.

TWO MIDDYS: Two midfielders in the Princeton Summer Lacrosse League are Lawrence Shannon (left), a member of first-place Maroon, and Pepper DeTuro of the Grey Team who played lacrosse this spring at the Hun School. Shannon is a 1981 graduate of Princeton Day School.

Rabbi Glazer

for single parents, was started by him because he saw these parents trying to fill two roles, often without the support of a family close by. The group has been growing steadily and currently numbers about 15.

He also began a group for intermarried couples in which he teaches Judaism. "There is no intent to convert anyone," says the rabbi, "only a desire to teach. If the kids are being raised Jewish, the non-Jewish partner will have a better understanding of what it is to be a Jew."

Also in the past year, a number of families have participated in Mazon, a group formed as a Jewish reponse to hunger. Through Mazon, Jews add three percent to the cost of a celebration — a bar or bat mitzvah, a wedding, a birthday or anniversary — and contribute this sum to the group. Funds thus raised are allocated to established agencies battling hunger.

Children in the congregation who are celebrating their bar or bat mitzvah now voluntarily contribute ten percent of their gift money to the Zib Tzedakah Fund, which supports people and institutions that do good work in the United States and Israel.

"We've raised over $2,000 this year, and the kids have been doing it themselves," says the rabbi.

The congregation also has an active social concerns committee and has recently shown great interest in becoming involved in the sanctuary movement. "At a recent meeting of the Princeton Sanctuary group, I noticed that the majority there were members of the Jewish Center," reports the rabbi.

Full Equality. The Jewish Center, says Rabbi Glazer, supports the fullest equality for men and women, including privileges and responsibilities. "Women have the same role as men in the service.

"Right now we're grappling with language," he says. "We don't want to exclude women, but traditional liturgy refers to God as male. How do you address God," he asks. "As King, Lord, Father, Mother?"

Even though no final answers have yet been determined, the rabbi has already changed some prayers to make them more neutral.

...Would he want his four ... to become rabbis? "Yes and no," he says. "The worst part about being a rabbi is that I don't have time for my family. Here I am talking about family life being crucial, and here I am taking time away from my own family."

Rabbis, he said, are torn between family and job. They are at the mercy of the congregation, which often doesn't understand what they do. Yet they can't talk about many things, such as counselling, and that takes its toll. "Rabbis," he says, "are leaving and getting divorced at staggering rates.

"A few weeks ago," he continued, "Ilan said to me, 'I never want to be a rabbi; they never have time for their kids.'

"They miss me and I miss them. It's a real problem."

But he enjoys the rabbinate, much more now than when he began 12 years ago. "Then I thought I knew the answer to all problems. Now I know I don't know, and I'm willing to listen. I'm also trying to restore a sense of playfulness; we only go through this life once."

Being a rabbi means getting a chance to study and to meet fascinating people, both Jews and non-Jews. It also means to him a chance to be of help and to teach people a tradition "that I think is the most meaningful tradition that exists today. It's an honor."

He recalls seeing a former colleague at a convention and being told to "do like the rest of us; get out of the rat race and become a psychologist.

"But," says Rabbi Glazer, "they see only unhappy people. I wouldn't like that. I go to b'riths, bar and bat mitzvahs, weddings. I see the life cycle. I help a woman to smile after her husband has died and then I see her happy at her grandson's bar mitzvah or her daughter's wedding.

"Only because I rejoice with people can I cry with them," says this warm, candid, and enthusiastic leader of Princeton's Jewish community.

The kind of retirement community you always hoped you'd find is being planned right now.

Mail the coupon for information.

If you're one of the people who will mail the coupon to learn more about Monroe Village in Monroe Township, you are approaching or have already reached age 65.

The idea of a charming apartment in a suburban community, where your neighbors are about your own age and share similar interests, appeals to you.

But you insist on security. You want first-rate medical care available on virtually a moment's notice. You want your independence. And you want the comforts and conveniences you've worked all your life to earn.

That's what Monroe Village is all about. It is being planned for construction on 55 acres on the Jamesburg-Half Acre Road. And since there are quite a few people like you, we expect Monroe Village to fill up fast when construction is completed in late 1987.

Carpeting, patios, protection.

Monroe Village will offer you a choice of two-bedroom, one-bedroom or studio apartments. All the apartments will have patios or balconies, wall-to-wall carpeting, draperies, and individual climate control.

Your apartment will have its own kitchen. But cooking needn't be a daily chore because there will also be a comfortable community dining room for dinner, or for three meals a day.

Other amenities will include elevators in all apartment buildings. Enclosed walkways between buildings. Surveillance of grounds and buildings for security. And the convenience of housekeeping and maintenance service.

Monroe Village will have a library, a community center with craft and hobby rooms, and even bus transportation to shopping areas.

Health facilities with healthy precautions.

Should you ever need them, the services of a physician and nursing staff will be available 24 hours a day. There will also be a 60-bed nursing center.

There will even be a "panic pull" in every apartment. So you can easily summon medical help in an emergency.

Experienced care with a philosophy of caring.

Monroe Village is an affiliate of Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey, the largest non-profit health care provider for elderly people in the state.

We have been offering our special kind of care since 1927. Today, over 1,700 people live in the eight different non-sectarian facilities operated by Presbyterian Homes.

All believe in the philosophy of "The Continuum of Care." It's based on a genuine concern for the total needs of our residents—needs for a feeling of independence and spiritual well-being, as well as a full range of physical and emotional services.

Deciding to live in Monroe Village is an important decision, not to be made lightly. That's why you should send for more information and study it carefully. We suggest you do so now, by using the coupon or calling.
